Roaring Avalanche Of GOP Takes U.S. House; Andy May Is Defeated

Republicans won control of both House and Senate of the 80th Congress today in a triumphant landslide that overturned the Democrats for the first time in 15 years.

Shortly after one o'clock this afternoon the Associated Press reported unofficial returns from 8,222 out of 8,239 precincts in the state as follows:

Guffey, 1,233,731; Martin, 1,843,474; Rice, 1,264,289; Duff, 1,817,740.

(By The Associated Press)
Republicans, with a comeback of landslide proportions, had the House of Representatives within their grasp today and reached for control of the Senate as well.

Riding a tide of protest votes from citizens who gave evidence of having "had enough" of Democratic direction of the nation's legislative machinery, the GOP swept to its first major victory since its loss in the depression days of the early 30s.

A thundering tide of votes coursed through New England, lapped at the borders of Dixie and surged on to the West Coast, to turn up these results of Tuesday's balloting:

House—199 Republicans elected for net gain of 34 (including one former progressive seat); 163 Democrats elected for net loss of 33. Rep. Vito Marcantonio, American Labor member from New York, re-elected as only minor party representative.

GOP Needs 26 More
In 72 contests remaining to be settled, the Republicans needed to retain a net gain of only 26 to have the 218 majority necessary to organization of the House of the 80th Congress.

Senate (including holdovers)—45 Republicans; 41 Democrats. Nine races undecided, with Republicans leading in six and Democrats in three. Republicans' net gain at this point was eight, with total of 10 needed for control.

In 34 governorship races, the Republicans had elected 19. They took over two formerly held by the Democrats in Massachusetts and Ohio, but yielded one to the Democrats in Colorado. The Democrats had elected eight.

Undecided Contests
In undecided contests, the Democrats led in governorship races in Arizona, Maryland, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Wyoming. The Republican held the lead in Idaho.

In only two instances both in snow-bound Colorado, had the Democrats been able to unseat a Republican for major office. John Carroll, Denver Democrat, beat Rep. Dean M. Gillespie, incumbent Republican, in the first district Congress race there. Democrat William Lee Knous defeated Republican Leon E. Livingston for governor.

In a sweep that left only Rhode Island, and possibly Maryland and West Virginia, as Democratic islands, in the east, Pennsylvania laid claim to being the banner GOP state.

There the Republicans won nine House seats previously held by the Democrats, in addition to retaining all of the places they had held.

Tops 600,000 Majority
The state gave Gov. Edward Martin, Republican, a margin over Senator Joseph Guffey, a New Deal wheelhorse, of more than 600,000 for the Senate seat the Democrat had held since 1935.

GOP leaders joyously counted the House theirs. They said they had little doubt that the Senate also would fall, giving them complete control of the nation's legislative machinery.

Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan glumly left his party's headquarters early in the morning without comment. But Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) said in Bonham, Texas, he recalled it looked like the Democrats had lost the House in 1942 "but the next day we pulled ahead 24 seats."

Rep. Joseph Martin (Mass.), in line to become speaker of a Republican House, said his party accepts "the responsibility the American people, by their mandate, have placed in our hands."

GIVE TB TESTS AT NEW OXFORD TO 81 PUPILS

Eighty-one students enrolled in the ninth grade at New Oxford high school and those participating in competitive athletics were given the tuberculin test Monday morning by Dr. C. R. Phillips, a state physician, assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth Ridler, a nurse of Gettysburg.

On Friday evening, November 1, the students of the New Oxford Junior-Senior high school held a Halloween party in the auditorium. Nearly 200 persons attended. The room was tastefully decorated with cut-outs appropriate to the season. Prizes were awarded as follows: best dressed, Peg Alwine; most original, Nancy Gable, Merri Yohe, and Eugene Mechtly; and funniest, Gene Yealy; Charles Grist and Morris Myers; and Evelyn Stambaugh, Emma Hippensteel and Dorothy Hoover.

Games And Dancing
After unmasking, the guests played games in four groups led by Alice Jane Stock, Eugene Jones, Jean Miller and Louise Myers. Following the serving of refreshments, dancing was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening, with the new school record player furnishing the music. Committees serving were Joyce Leib, Alice Jane Stock, Jean Miller, Norman Haar, Louise Myers.

Blue, Gray Band Meets Thursday

All members of the Blue and Gray band were urged today to attend the rehearsal scheduled for 8 o'clock Thursday evening when the musicians will begin practice for a concert to be held at Christmas time.

Because a number of new pieces are scheduled for the proposed concert it will be necessary for all members to take part in the practices, officials announced. The rehearsal Thursday will mark the resumption of his duties by Director Harry C. Stenger, who will be conducting a rehearsal for the first time since his recent illness.

DIARY RELATED DEDICATION OF CEMETERY HERE

Details of a journey by a native of Gettysburg from Wytheville, Virginia, where she lived prior to and during the Civil war, to Gettysburg to visit her parents in 1863 shortly after the Battle of Gettysburg were related at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Adams County Historical Society by Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, Seminary Ridge. The meeting was held in the society rooms in the court house with 50 present.

The details were taken from a diary written by the travel, Mrs. Josephine Forney Roedel, daughter of Samuel S. and Eliza Swope Forney, who was born in Gettysburg November 7, 1825. On March 24, 1852 she married the Rev. William D. Roedel, who graduated from the Gettysburg college and the Lutheran Theological seminary here. In 1855 Rev. Roedel accepted the presidency of the Wytheville, Virginia, Female Academy and Mrs. Roedel went there with her husband. She began her trip home during the Civil war on October 28, 1863, Mrs. Lewars narrated.

At Cemetery Dedication
A portion of her diary related to the dedication of the National cemetery here on November 18, 1863, five days after her arrival in Gettysburg. Under the date, Thursday, 18th (1863) Mrs. Roedel noted: "This week has been spent in the greatest preparation for the consecration of a National Cemetery in (Gettysburg). I have seen only a few of my friends, all are engrossed with preparations. At first I wished my visit had occurred at any other time as my heart is so sad, but never in my life will I have the same opportunity of seeing so many of the great men of the nation."

Her entry for November 19 read, "Friday eve. The great day is over and I am so glad I have been here. The president, governors, cabinet, in fact so many until 30,000 will hardly cover the number. I was one of the fortunate ones, seeing all the mass of people who passed through the town in procession and then getting on the ground in advance of the procession, again getting a good look at Father Abraham and his retinue. Following after, worked my way in front of the stand where I saw and heard all prayer by Dr. Stockton, address by (Continued on Page 3)

Colonel Rice Congratulates Duff; Pledges His Support

One of the finest statements from a defeated candidate for a high elective office was issued by Colonel John S. Rice at 11:25 o'clock Tuesday night from his residence on West Broadway where with a small group of friends he received election returns.

Congratulating Attorney General Duff on his election to the office of Governor, Colonel Rice pledged his "help and support."

Colonel Rice's statement follows:

"I congratulate my opponent, Attorney General Jim Duff, upon his election as Governor, and assure him of my heartfelt and sincere support in carrying forward measures for the benefit of our people."

"I have been favorably impressed by many of the planks in the Republican platform, and by many of the proposals made by Mr. Duff during his campaign. Our new Governor may be assured that I shall be happy to exert such influence as I may have to help in realizing those objectives. The people have given him a great opportunity for service, but they have also given him an enormous task. In order to carry on the work he has set for himself, he will need the help of everyone. Democrats and Republicans alike and I wish to pledge my help and support."

Town Receives Election Returns In Quiet Fashion

In spite of the more than usual interest in the outcome of the balloting in the election here yesterday, the day and evening were relatively quiet, and with the complete returns for Adams county in and tabulated at an early hour this morning, the crowds, which had been orderly, left for their homes. The last return received at the board of elections in the court house was from the first district in Littlestown. The complete vote was in at 12:30 a. m.

The Republican county committee had a radio installed in the court house for state and national returns, and a microphone in the board of elections office. During the earlier part of the evening loud speakers carried the returns to crowds in the hall. At the conclusion of a meeting which was held in the court room, the loud speakers were moved there.

Applaud Rice Statement
Crosby N. Hartzell handled the microphone, and gave the Adams county returns to the crowd, which varied at times from 50 to 150 persons, as fast as they were received. State and national figures were furnished the announcer by The Gettysburg Times via direct telephone communication to the election board from the Times offices, as they were received over the Associated Press wire. The radio filled in between announcements.

Town Is Orderly
Col. John S. Rice's statement conceding the election to his Republican opponent, James H. Duff, when it became certain that Duff had carried the state for governor, was read over the public address system, and was applauded by the crowds at the court house. Democratic headquarters on South Washington street also received returns, and a smaller crowd gathered there to watch the results.

The office of The Gettysburg Times was open throughout the evening and until after the final county returns had been tabulated. Many persons gathered there through the special phone to the courthouse county returns were quickly tabulated.

The results were also announced. (Please turn to Page 2)

Rice Leads Democratic Ticket In State; Loses Adams County; Gross, Worley Win; Brehm Loses

Garnering more votes than any other candidate of his party in Tuesday's voting in Pennsylvania, Colonel John S. Rice of Gettysburg went down to defeat before the Republican landslide victory that swept the Keystone state and most of the nation.

Colonel Rice carried seven counties in Tuesday's voting and Senator Joseph Guffey won in only three counties. The Gettysburg candidate topped Senator Guffey, who was routed in his campaign for reelection, in 57 of the 67 counties in the state, according to almost complete state returns compiled by the Associated Press this afternoon.

Unofficial Figures
The Associated Press compilation of the totals in the senatorial and gubernatorial races shows these state figures:

C. S. SENATOR
Guffey 1,233,731
Martin 1,843,474

GOVERNOR
Rice 1,262,367
Duff 1,817,740

Senator Rice won majorities in these counties: Allegheny, Fayette, Fulton, Greene, Northampton, Washington, Westmoreland and York.

Four years ago when General Edward Martin defeated F. Clair Ross in the last governor election in Pennsylvania, Ross carried 11 counties in the state and Martin won in the other 56.

In the voting in Adams county Colonel Rice carried 17 of the 42 precincts, while Senator Guffey gained majorities in only 10. John W. Brehm, Rice's running mate here in the congressional race, won 15 of the 42 districts.

In the voting four years ago, F. Clair Ross carried only 11 districts in this county as compared with 17 won by Colonel Rice yesterday. Harry L. Haines, who was running for Congress in the same election in 1942, carried 11 districts and lost 31.

CARS COLLIDE HERE
An automobile operated by Glenn Shields, Gettysburg R. 3, collided with the automobile of Donald C. Stallsmith, 38 North Stratton street, on Center Square Tuesday. Borough police reported today. Damage to the Shields car was estimated at $55. There was no damage to the Stallsmith car.

LEAGUE OPENS TWO-DAY MEET HERE THURSDAY

The annual conference of the Woman's League of Gettysburg college, which will open Thursday afternoon in Weddell hall at 2 p. m., following a meeting of the executive board at 10 a. m., will have on its program Dr. Abdel Ross Wentz, president of Gettysburg Lutheran Seminary, and Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college as speakers.

Doctor Wentz will address the Thursday evening service in Christ Lutheran church, and Dr. Hanson will be the speaker at the 35th anniversary banquet Friday evening at St. James church.

Mrs. Charles W. Baker Jr., Pittsburgh, will open the conference Thursday afternoon. Its theme will be "Things that Abide." Devotions will be led by Mrs. Raymond W. Samuel, York league, and a report of the credentials committee will be given by Mrs. Henry T. Bream, Gettysburg. Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson, will deliver the address of welcome, and the response will be given by Mrs. Chester S. Simonton, York league. Mrs. H. S. Crist, Altoona league, will call the roll. The opening session will conclude with the report of the president, the treasurer, Miss Grace P. Fuhrman, Baltimore league, and statistical secretary, Mrs. Thomas M. Mallin, York league. Committees will also be appointed.

Friday's Program
On Friday morning, when the program will open in Christ Lutheran church at 9:45 a. m., devotions will be led by Mrs. Howard O. Walker, York league. Greenings will be extended by the Rev. Howard J. McCarnes, college chaplain. Other reports will be given, including that of the president of the Student Christian association and its vice president, literature committee, Mrs. Ralph R. Gresh, Gettysburg, historian, Mrs. Frederick K. Schwartz, Gettysburg; junior committees, Mrs. J. C. McCartney, Harrisburg league, finance committee, Mrs. P. D. Hoover, member at large and nominating committee. (Please Turn to Page 3)

Led by Governor Edward Martin in his successful drive to displace U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, Republicans in Adams county on Tuesday gave wide margins to the entire slate of GOP candidates.

Helping to pile up huge state-wide Republican leads, Adams county voters helped re-elect Congressman Chester H. Gross as representative from the York-Adams-Franklin district and returned Assemblyman Francis Worley to the state legislature for his third consecutive term.

Turning out in exceptionally large numbers for a non-presidential year, 71.5 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots. The count at the courthouse this morning showed 12,897 ballots were cast in Adams county.

County Totals
The county totals in the contest for U. S. Senator follow:

Guffey 5,093
Martin 7,554

The county totals in the Rice-Duff contest for Governor follow:

Rice 5,866
Duff 6,872

Considerable ticket cutting was in evidence in many districts while in some sections a great proportion of the ballots were voted "straight."

Tops GOP Registration
Adams county gave Governor Martin a margin of 2,461 votes—almost 400 more than the registered Republican lead in the county. Martin topped Guffey in 32 of the 42 voting districts of the county, including Franklin township and New Oxford borough—both Democratic districts—where Democratic candidates topped their GOP opponents for all other offices on the ballot.

This county gave Congressman Gross a margin of 1,170 votes over former County Treasurer John W. Brehm. That lead, added to the big majority gained by Gross in Franklin county, offset Mr. Brehm's majority in York county and re-elected Congressman Gross.

The complete, unofficial figures on the voting in the York-Adams-Franklin district follows:

BREHM GROSS
Adams 5,782 6,952
Franklin 6,233 11,050
York 30,017 27,480

TOTALS 42,052 45,482
Gross Majority 3,430

Carries 17 Districts
While Colonel John S. Rice carried 17 districts in Tuesday's voting in Adams county, Mr. Brehm topped his opponent in 15 of the 42 districts. Mr. Duff won in 25 districts in Adams county, including all of Gettysburg.

Mr. Brehm was the only Democrat to carry any precinct in Gettysburg. He won in the Third ward by a margin of 13 votes over Congressman, Gross.

The Republican margin of victory in this county ranged from 2,461 votes for Governor Martin to a low of 1,666 votes in the gubernatorial contest between Colonel Rice and Attorney General James Duff, the governor-elect.

Other GOP candidates for the state-wide offices swept the county on the coat-tails of Governor Martin but with less imposing majorities.

Win Third Term
In the only strictly Adams county contest on the ballot, Assemblyman Francis Worley received 7,214 votes to defeat Democrat John W. Lucaubaugh, who received 5,512. Mr. Worley is the first Adams countyman to be elected to the Legislature for three terms since the days of Thaddeus Stevens a check of the records showed today.

The 32-year-old legislator was defeated in his first campaign for the Legislature at the age of 22 but in 1942 became this county's representative in the lower House at Harrisburg. (SEE COUNTY VOTE, P. 2)

County Girl Is
Wed On Tuesday

The marriage of Miss Jane Butts Currens, daughter of Mrs. Gladys P. and the late Joseph F. Currens of Cashtown, and Howard James Marion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Martin of Harrisburg, was solemnized Tuesday at Harrisburg by the Rev. Dr. J. E. Rudisill of Harrisburg, according to a marriage return filed at the court house today.

REPUBLICANS SWEEP NATION

Martin Trounces Guffey For United States Senate

Roaring Avalanche Of GOP Takes U.S. House; Andy May Is Defeated

Republicans won control of both House and Senate of the 80th Congress today in a triumphant landslide that overturned the Democrats for the first time in 15 years.

Shortly after one o'clock this afternoon the Associated Press reported unofficial returns from 8,222 out of 8,239 precincts in the state as follows:

Guffey, 1,238,731; Martin, 1,843,474; Rice, 1,264,289; Duff, 1,817,740.

(By The Associated Press) Republicans, with a comeback of landslide proportions, had the House of Representatives within their grasp today and reached for control of the Senate as well.

Riding a tide of protest votes from citizens who gave evidence of having "had enough" of Democratic direction of the nation's legislative machinery, the GOP swept to its first major victory since it lost power in the depression days of the early 30s.

A thundering tide of votes coursed through New England, lapped at the borders of Dixie and surged on to the West Coast, to turn up these results of Tuesday's balloting:

House—199 Republicans elected for net gain of 34 (including one former progressive seat); 163 Democrats elected for net loss of 33. Rep. Vito Marcantonio, American Labor member from New York, re-elected as only minor party representative.

Senate (including holdovers)—46 Republicans; 41 Democrats. Nine races undecided, with Republicans leading in six and Democrats in three. Republicans' net gain at this point was eight, with total of 10 needed for control.

In 34 governorship races, the Republicans had elected 19. They took over two formerly held by the Democrats in Massachusetts and Ohio, but yielded one to the Democrats in Colorado. The Democrats had elected eight.

Undecided Contests In undecided contests, the Democrats led in governorship races in Arizona, Maryland, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Wyoming. The Republican held the lead in Idaho.

In only two instances both in snow-bound Colorado, had the Democrats been able to unseat a Republican for major office. John Carroll, Denver Democrat, beat Rep. Dean M. Gillespie, incumbent Republican, in the first district Congress race there. Democrat William Lee Knous defeated Republican Leon E. Lavington for governor.

In a sweep that left only Rhode Island, and possibly Maryland and West Virginia, as Democratic islands, in the east, Pennsylvania laid claim to being the banner GOP state.

There the Republicans won nine House seats previously held by the Democrats, in addition to retaining all of the places they had held.

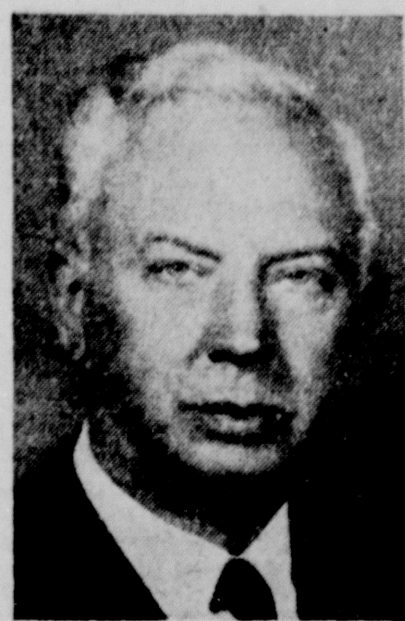

Tops 600,000 Majority The state gave Gov. Edward Martin, Republican, a margin over Senator Joseph Guffey, a New Deal wheelhorse, of more than 600,000 for the Senate seat the Democrat had held since 1935.

GOP leaders joyously counted the House theirs. They said they had little doubt that the Senate also would fall, giving them complete control of the nation's legislative machinery.

Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannagan glumly left his party's headquarters early in the morning without comment. But Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) said in Bonham, Texas, he recalled it looked like the Democrats had lost the House in 1942 "but the next day we pulled ahead 24 seats."

Rep. Joseph Martin (Mass.), in line to become speaker of a Republican House, said his party accepts "the responsibility the American people, by their mandate, have placed in our hands."

GIVE TB TESTS AT NEW OXFORD TO 81 PUPILS

Eighty-one students enrolled in the ninth grade at New Oxford high school and those participating in competitive athletics were given the tuberculin test Monday morning by Dr. C. R. Phillips, a state physician, assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth Ridler, a nurse of Gettysburg.

On Friday evening, November 1, the students of the New Oxford Junior-Senior high school held a Halloween party in the auditorium. Nearly 200 persons attended. The room was tastefully decorated with cut-outs appropriate to the season. Prizes were awarded as follows: best dressed, Peg Alwine; most original, Nancy Gable, Merrill Yohe, and Eugene Mechtly; and funniest, Gene Yealy; Charles Griest and Morris Myers; and Evelyn Stambaugh, Emma Hippensteel and Dorothy Hoover.

Games And Dancing After unmasking, the guests played games in four groups led by Alice Jane Stock, Eugene Jones, Jean Miller and Louise Myers. Following the serving of refreshments, dancing was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening, with the new school record player furnishing the music. Blue, Gray Band Meets Thursday

All members of the Blue and Gray band were urged today to attend the rehearsal scheduled for 8 o'clock Thursday evening when the musicians will begin practice for a concert to be held at Christmas time.

Because a number of new pieces are scheduled for the proposed concert it will be necessary for all members to take part in the practices, officials announced. The rehearsal Thursday will mark the resumption of his duties by Director Harry C. Stenger, who will be conducting a rehearsal for the first time since his recent illness.

DIARY RELATED DEDICATION OF CEMETERY HERE

Details of a journey by a native of Gettysburg from Wytheville, Virginia, where she lived prior to and during the Civil War, to Gettysburg to visit her parents in 1863 shortly after the Battle of Gettysburg were related at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Adams County Historical Society by Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, Seminary Ridge. The meeting was held in the society rooms in the court house with 50 present.

The details were taken from a diary written by the travel, Mrs. Josephine Forney Roedel, daughter of Samuel S. and Eliza Swope Forney, who was born in Gettysburg November 7, 1825. On March 24, 1852 she married the Rev. William D. Roedel, who graduated from the Gettysburg college and the Lutheran Theological seminary here. In 1855 Rev. Roedel accepted the presidency of the Wytheville, Virginia, Female Academy and Mrs. Roedel went there with her husband. She began her trip home during the Civil war on October 28, 1863. Mrs. Lewars narrated.

At Cemetery Dedication A portion of her diary related to the dedication of the National cemetery here on November 18, 1863, five days after her arrival in Gettysburg.

Under the date, Thursday, 18th (1863) Mrs. Roedel noted: "This week has been spent in the greatest preparation for the consecration of a National Cemetery in (Gettysburg). I have seen only a few of my friends, all are engrossed with preparations. At first I wished my visit had occurred at any other time as my heart is so sad, but never in my life will I have the same opportunity of seeing so many of the great men of the nation."

Her entry for November 19 read, "Friday eve. The great day is over and I am so glad I have been here. 'The president, governors, cabinet, in fact so many until 30,000 will hardly cover the number. I was one of the fortunate ones, seeing all the mass of people who passed through the town in procession and then getting on the ground in advance of the procession, again getting a good look at Father Abraham and his retinue. Following after, worked my way in front of the stand where I saw and heard all prayer by Dr. Stockton, address by (Continued on Page 3)

Colonel Rice Congratulates Duff; Pledges His Support

One of the finest statements from a defeated candidate for a high elective office was issued by Colonel John S. Rice at 11:25 o'clock Tuesday night from his residence on West Broadway where with a small group of friends he received election returns.

Congratulating Attorney General Duff on his election to the office of Governor Colonel Rice pledged his "help and support."

Colonel Rice's statement follows: "I congratulate my opponent, Attorney General Jim Duff, upon his election as Governor, and assure him of my heartfelt and sincere support in carrying forward measures for the benefit of our people."

"I have been favorably impressed by many of the planks in the Republican platform, and by many of the proposals made by Mr. Duff during his campaign. Our new Governor may be assured that I shall be happy to exert such influence as I may have to help in realizing those objectives. The people have given him a great opportunity for service, but they have also given him an enormous task. In order to carry on the work he has set for himself, he will need the help of everyone, Democrats and Republicans alike and I wish to pledge my help and support."

Town Receives Election Returns In Quiet Fashion

In spite of the more than usual interest in the outcome of the balloting in the election here yesterday, the day and evening were relatively quiet, and with the complete returns for Adams county in and tabulated at an early hour this morning, the crowds, which had been orderly, left for their homes. The last return received at the board of elections in the court house was from the first district in Littlestown. The complete vote was in at 12:30 a. m.

The Republican county committee had a radio installed in the court house for state and national returns, and a microphone in the board of elections office. During the earlier part of the evening loud speakers carried the returns to crowds in the hall. At the conclusion of a meeting which was held in the court room, the loud speakers were moved there.

Applaud Rice Statement Crosby N. Hartzell handled the microphone, and gave the Adams county returns to the crowd, which varied at times from 50 to 150 persons, as fast as they were received. State and national figures were furnished the announcer by The Gettysburg Times via direct telephone communication to the election board from The Times offices, as they were received over the Associated Press wire. The radio filled in between announcements.

Rice Leads Democratic Ticket In State; Loses Adams County; Gross, Worley Win; Brehm Loses

Garnering more votes than any other candidate of his party in Tuesday's voting in Pennsylvania, Colonel John S. Rice of Gettysburg went down to defeat before the Republican landslide victory that swept the Keystone state and most of the nation.

Colonel Rice carried seven counties in Tuesday's voting and Senator Joseph Guffey won in only three counties. The Gettysburg candidate topped Senator Guffey, who was routed in his campaign for reelection, in 57 of the 67 counties in the state, according to almost complete state returns compiled by the Associated Press this afternoon.

Unofficial Figures The Associated Press compilation of the totals in the senatorial and gubernatorial races shows these state figures:

U. S. SENATOR
Guffey	1,236,668
Martin	1,840,754
GOVERNOR
Rice	1,262,367
Duff	1,814,961

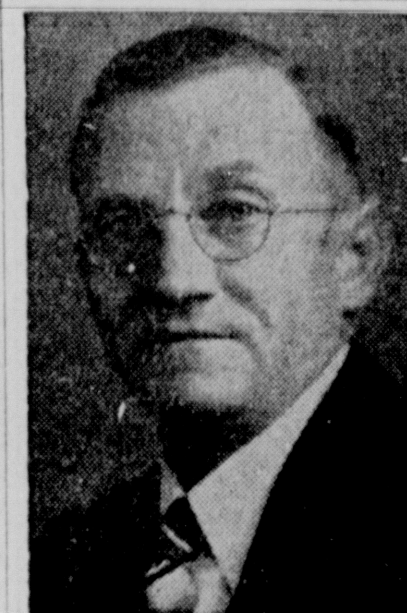

Senator Rice won majorities in these counties: Allegheny, Fayette, Fulton, Greene, Northampton, Washington, Westmoreland and York.

Four years ago when General Edward Martin defeated F. Clair Ross in the last governor election in Pennsylvania, Ross carried 11 counties in the state and Martin won in the other 56.

In the voting in Adams county Colonel Rice carried 17 of the 42 precincts while Senator Guffey gained majorities in only 10. John W. Brehm, Rice's running mate here in the congressional race, won 15 of the 42 districts.

In the voting four years ago, F. Clair Ross carried only 11 districts in this county as compared with 17 won by Colonel Rice yesterday. Harry L. Haines, who was running for Congress in the same election in 1942, carried 11 districts and lost 31.

CARS COLLIDE HERE An automobile operated by Glenn Shields, Gettysburg R. 3, collided with the automobile of Donald C. Stallsmith, 38 North Stratton street, on Center Square Tuesday, borough police reported today. Damage to the Shields car was estimated at $55. There was no damage to the Stallsmith car.

LEAGUE OPENS TWO-DAY MEET HERE THURSDAY

The annual conference of the Woman's League of Gettysburg college, which will open Thursday afternoon in Weidensall hall at 2 p. m., following a meeting of the executive board at 10 a. m., will have on its program Dr. Abdel Ross Wentz, president of Gettysburg Lutheran Seminary, and Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college as speakers.

Doctor Wentz will address the Thursday evening service in Christ Lutheran church, and Dr. Hanson will be the speaker at the 35th anniversary banquet Friday evening at St. James church.

Mrs. Charles W. Baker, Jr., Pittsburgh, will open the conference Thursday afternoon. Its theme will be "Things that Abide." Devotions will be led by Mrs. Raymond W. Sammel, York league, and a report of the credentials committee will be given by Mrs. Henry T. Bream, Gettysburg. Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson, will deliver the address of welcome, and the response will be given by Mrs. Chester S. Simonton, York league. Mrs. H. S. Crist, Altoona league, will call the roll. The opening session will conclude with the report of the president, the treasurer, Miss Grace P. Fuhrman, Baltimore league, and statistical secretary, Mrs. Thomas M. Malin, York league. Committees will also be appointed.

Friday's Program On Friday morning, when the program will open in Christ Lutheran church at 9:45 a. m., devotions will be led by Mrs. Howard O. Walker, York league. Greetings will be extended by the Rev. Howard J. McCarney, college chaplain. Other reports will be given, including that of the president of the Student Christian association and its vice president; literature committee, Mrs. Ralph R. Gresh, Gettysburg; historian, Mrs. Frederick K. Schwartz, Gettysburg; junior committees, Mrs. J. C. McCartney, Harrisburg league; finance committee, Mrs. P. D. Hoover, member at large and nominating committee. (Please Turn to Page 3)

Led by Governor Edward Martin in his successful drive to displace U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, Republicans in Adams county on Tuesday gave wide margins to the entire slate of GOP candidates.

Helping to pile up huge state-wide Republican leads, Adams county voters helped re-elect Congressman Chester H. Gross as representative from the York-Adams-Franklin district and returned Assemblyman Francis Worley to the state Legislature for his third consecutive term.

Turning out in exceptionally large numbers for a non-presidential year, 71.5 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots. The count at the courthouse this morning showed 12,897 ballots were cast in Adams county.

County Totals The county totals in the contest for U. S. Senator follow:

Guffey 5,093
Martin 7,554

The county totals in the Rice-Duff contest for Governor follow:

Rice 5,866
Duff 6,872

Considerable ticket cutting was in evidence in many districts while in some sections a great proportion of the ballots were voted "straight."

Tops GOP Registration Adams county gave Governor Martin a margin of 2,461 votes—almost 400 more than the registered Republican lead in the county. Martin topped Guffey in 32 of the 42 voting districts of the county, including Franklin township and New Oxford borough—both Democratic districts—where Democratic candidates topped their GOP opponents for all other offices on the ballot.

This county gave Congressman Gross a margin of 1,170 votes over former County Treasurer John W. Brehm. That lead, added to the big majority gained by Gross in Franklin county, offset Mr. Brehm's majority in York county and re-elected Congressman Gross.

The complete, unofficial figures on the voting in the York-Adams-Franklin district follows:

Adams BREHM GROSS
Franklin 5,782 6,952
York 6,253 11,050
TOTALS 30,017 27,480

Carries 17 Districts While Colonel John S. Rice carried 17 districts in Tuesday's voting in Adams county, Mr. Brehm topped his opponent in 15 of the 42 districts. Mr. Duff won in 25 districts in Adams county, including all of Gettysburg.

Mr. Brehm was the only Democrat to carry any precinct in Gettysburg. He won in the Third ward by a margin of 13 votes over Congressman Gross.

The Republican margin of victory in this county ranged from 2,461 votes for Governor Martin to a low of 1,006 votes in the gubernatorial contest between Colonel Rice and Attorney General James Duff, the governor-elect.

Other GOP candidates for the state-wide offices swept the county on the coat-tails of Governor Martin but with less imposing majorities.

Win Third Term In the only strictly Adams county contest on the ballot, Assemblyman Francis Worley received 7,214 votes to defeat Democrat John W. Lucaubaugh, who received 5,512. Mr. Worley is the first Adams countyman to be elected to the Legislature for three terms since the days of Thaddeus Stevens a check of the records showed today.

The 32-year-old legislator was defeated in his first campaign for the Legislature at the age of 22 but in 1942 became this county's representative in the lower House at Harrisburg. (SEE COUNTY VOTE, P. 2)

County Girl Is Wed On Tuesday

The marriage of Miss Jane Butt Currens, daughter of Mrs. Claudys P. and the late Joseph F. Currens of Cashtown, and Howard James Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Martin of Harrisburg, was solemnized Tuesday at Harrisburg by the Rev. Dr. J. E. Rudisill of Harrisburg, according to a marriage return filed at the court house today.

'GAG' VICTIM IS RECOVERING

Philadelphia, Nov. 5 (P)—Seven-year-old Ernest Ulrich, who Detective Harry McCann reported had been tied by a rope to the rear of an automobile and forced to run behind it four blocks before he fell, and was battered into unconsciousness, was reported "improved" today.

Meanwhile, four youths were held in $5,000 bail each on charges of assault and battery by automobile following a preliminary hearing yesterday before Magistrate Joseph H. Rainey.

The youths, who will be given a further hearing Friday, were identified by McCann as James Primo, 20, Anthony Primo, 23, Edward Primo, 18, and Charles Lafferty, 18.

McCann testified the youths told him they tied the rope around Ulrich Sunday "just as a gag to see how fast he could run."

Ulrich, whose clothes were torn from his body, attracted the attention of patrons of a riding academy who cut him free and took him to Methodist hospital where he is reported suffering from severe body burns and a possible serious head injury.

BOND SALES TOTALS

Washington, Nov. 5 (P)—Sales of all three issues of government savings bonds totaled $519,371,000 during October, making the total for the first ten months of the year $6,398,155,000.

A treasury report today said that for the Series E (war bond) issue alone, however, October sales of $326,794,000 fell $82,741,000 short of cash-ins. A stepped up sales campaign is to begin next Monday.

IT. COL. KOPP DIES

Camp Lee, Va., Nov. 5 (P)—Lt. Col. Marlin R. Kopp, 36, commanding officer of the Tenth Quartermaster training battalion here, died unexpectedly Saturday of a heart attack while working in his office, the Camp Lee public relations office announced today.

Col. Kopp, a resident of Lebanon, Pa., will be buried there Sunday with full military honors. He is survived by his wife.

FOR PARADE

A large crowd was on hand Saturday evening for the annual Halloween parade in York Springs when one of the largest processions ever assembled in that town for a similar event moved over the prescribed route while judges selected winners.

Costumed contestants on foot, floats, automobiles, horse-drawn vehicles, and bicycles, took part in the parade. Ross Koons was master of ceremonies, assisted by Harold Leavay, a Hanover band and the York Springs high school band furnished music for the marchers. The Lions club of York Springs sponsored the parade. Cash prizes contributed by the businessmen of the town were awarded winners.

List of Winners

In the float division, first prize was won by the Methodist Youth Fellowship group. Second prize was awarded to the Girl Scouts of York Springs, and a group of Dillsburg boys won third prize. Best decorated automobile prizes were won by Dale Grove, first, and Peter Griest, second. Best dressed adult winners were: First prize, Mrs. Freeman Kennedy; second prize, June Byers, Dillsburg; third prize, Gladys Lloyd. Other winners were as follows: Most comical adult: First prize, Charles Rife, Thomasville; second prize, Mrs. Emma Brinkerhoff; third prize, Joe Allen Sparr, Dillsburg; best dressed child, eight to sixteen years: First prize, Esther Lortz; second prize, Lucille Bubbs; third prize, Raymond Schoffstall; most comical child, eight to sixteen years: First prize, Crendon Coulson, Gardners; second prize, Ethel Wolf, Alverta Danner, and Frieda Donson, all of Dillsburg; third prize, Fred Spertzel, Gardners; Best dressed child under eight years: First prize, Danny Lerer; second prize, Christy Fissel and Bonnie Woodward, Gettysburg; third prize, Charlotte Taylor; Most comical child under eight years: First prize, Stanley Prosser; second prize, Galen Ryder, Dillsburg; Best decorated animal-drawn vehicle: First prize, Wayne Saurers, Mt. Tabor; second prize, Claude May; Best decorated pony or horse and rider: First prize, Janet Har, East Berlin; second prize, Louis Shellenberger, Dillsburg.

The prize for the most outstanding representation on float was won by the Mademoiselle club. Awards for the best-decorated bicycle and rider went to the following: First prize, Teddy Koons; second prize, Joanne Dick, Dillsburg; third prize, Harold Leavay, Marshalls of the parade were Paul Miller, Henry Newcomer and Eugene Bowers.

Refreshments were served to the children and hot sandwiches and coffee were on sale.

Postponement On Biddle Decision

West Chester, Pa., Nov. 5 (P)—A seven-day postponement has been granted by the Chester County Court on a petition filed by Alexander W. Biddle, 27-year-old socialite, for custody of his eight-month-old son, Jonathan William, who, he contends, is "wrongfully withheld" by his wife's parents.

The court said at a hearing yesterday that it had decided to postpone its decision on the petition until November 12 "in the best interests of all concerned."

Biddle, son of the executive vice president of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange, petitioned the court October 28 for writ of habeas corpus, claiming his baby son was "unlawfully" removed from Bryn Mawr hospital last May 8 and taken to the East Brandywine township, Pa., home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner Ossimms.

Mrs. Biddle, who attended the hearing, told reporters last week that she personally took the baby to her parents' home because she and the child were ill and there was an "inadequate number of servants" at her suburban Haverford home.

Europe Watching Elections In U.S.

London, Nov. 5 (P)—Europe watched America's elections today with marked anxiety as to what effect, if any, the results might have on the future economy of the world.

Most capitals were in agreement that foreign policy was not at issue and that the only question was the size of Republican gains.

The British press emphasized Britain's immediate interest in economic trends in the United States by featuring as one of the main stories a report that Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin would call on President Truman to "emphasize the gravity" of the world food situation.

The Paris press gave more space to the closing stages of the American political campaign than to the approaching French balloting for the country's new National Assembly.

Vet Employment Shows Sharp Gain

Harrisburg, Nov. 5 (P)—Employment has been found for 72 per cent of all discharged veterans in Pennsylvania, the U. S. Employment service figures disclosed today.

A "sharp gain" over the 58 per cent recorded six months ago.

The present problem of the employment service is to find women workers, with acute shortages reported at such points as Erie, Reading, Allentown, Bethlehem, Lancaster, Gettysburg, Harrisburg, and Chambersburg.

In the anthracite region there is a large manpower surplus, with unemployment steadily rising, a spokesman for USES declared.

Figures disclose that there are 50,000 unemployed in the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area and 15,000 idle in the Pottsville section of the southern coal fields.

PAINT PRICES UP

Washington, Nov. 5 (P)—OPA raised prices of most paints Monday by 31 cents to $1.30 a gallon. Agency officials also said soap prices must be increased or decontrolled. The increase on paints was granted because of higher costs of linseed oil which was freed from price ceilings Oct. 29.

There is apparently no change in nutritive value of foods due to freezing them.

Emmitsburg Nine To Dine Thursday

Emmitsburg's top ranking baseball team will be feted Thursday evening at a banquet to be held at 7 o'clock at the Lutheran parish house.

The squad, which won both the Adams county and the Penn-Maryland league titles in one of the longest seasons ever played by local teams, will be entertained by speakers, music and movies at the turkey dinner. The movies, taken by Dr. W. R. Cadle, will show the team in action during games this past season.

Tickets are available to those who wish to attend other than the players, who are guests, and can be obtained at Crouse's drug store or from Charles J. Rowe, the committee in charge announced today. Price of the tickets is $1.50. Everybody is welcome.

MOVING SCHOOL TO CARLISLE

In accordance with orders moving the Adjutant General's school from its present station at Ft. Oglethorpe, Georgia, to Carlisle Barracks, Pa., the school's first class will open at that station on 14 November 1946.

Major General Edward F. Witsell, the adjutant general, U. S. Army, and Col. Lathrop Clepham, adjutant general's department, commandant of the school, will formally open this class.

This will be the first course conducted under the post war plan of education in the Adjutant General's school and will consist of 29 officers who have recently been integrated into the Regular Army, 14 officers of the Chinese army, and six officers of the Philippine army. This course will be of five months duration.

The classes now being held at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., will graduate at that place upon completion of their course and will open at Carlisle Barracks. It is planned that all classes will be in session at Carlisle Barracks during the first week in January.

Lt. Col. Edward P. Nalley, executive officer of the Adjutant General's school, has arrived at Carlisle. Barracks to plan and coordinate the establishment of the school there. The first increment of 10 officers and 32 enlisted men and five civilians are due to arrive this week.

CLAY CRITICIZES DENAZIFICATION

Stuttgart, Germany, Nov. 5 (P)—Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay told the German council of state today that the American military government was "thoroughly disappointed" with the German performance in handling denazification.

Unless the Germans improve quickly, he said, the military government will take over the job itself.

The deputy military government of the American occupation zone announced an immediate order that no German who had been removed from office by the military government might be returned to office without military government approval, even though tried and cleared of Nazism by German denazification courts.

It was the sharpest criticism yet made of the provisional German government by military government officials, who last spring turned over to the Germans the responsibility for clearing their own ranks of Nazism in the American zone.

German officials from the three states in the American zone listened in glum silence to the sharp reproof.

Although Clay said yesterday in Berlin he was particularly dissatisfied with denazification in Bavaria, he did not single out any particular state in today's speech, making it applicable to the entire American zone.

First Navy Baby Is Born In Japan

Yokosuka, Nov. 5 (P)—Robert Dugas, Jr., weight 6 1/2 pounds, is the first navy baby born in Japan.

He is the son of Chief Gunners Mate Joseph and Melina Rita Guas, formerly of 1800 Minnesota Ave., Milwaukee. The Guases live in an apartment on the Yokosuka navy base with their two daughters, Sandra and Penelope, 1 and 2 years old, respectively. Mrs. Guas and the children arrived September 12.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 5 (P)—A light vote was reported here today during the first hour of Pennsylvania's first important postwar election. However, election officials expected the cool but clear weather would produce a heavier turnout later in the day.

CO. CAGE LOOP HOLDS SESSION

There will be only eight teams in the Adams County Independent basketball league, representatives of the squads decided Monday evening at a meeting in the Fire Engine house.

And in order to keep the league an Adams county affair, the cagers decided that only men living within a ten-mile radius of Gettysburg can play.

The eight teams in the loop include Fairfield, Biglerville, Seven Stars, Greenmount, Gettysburg, Redbirds, Gettysburg Commuters, Gettysburg American Legion and Ardensville.

Forfeit money and rosters are due at the next meeting the members decided, with all teams urged to be represented at the session to be held next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the engine house.

Games will be played in Gettysburg and Biglerville on Monday evenings and in Fairfield and Ardensville on Thursday evenings. There will be two games on each court, the group decided.

Another Player
Dies Of Injuries

Pottsville, Pa., Nov. 5 (P)—Joseph Lakotsky, 24, a guard on the Shenandoah team who was injured October 20 while playing football against Panther Valley in the Pennsylvania Professional Football league, died yesterday in Locust Mountain hospital.

Lakotsky's death was the second football fatality in the state within 24 hours.

Theodore Mish, 21, of Reading, Pa., died Sunday night of injuries received earlier in the day in a Greater Reading conference game.

Dr. W. T. Leach, superintendent of Locust Mountain hospital said Lakotsky's death was the result of complications induced by the injuries. He explained that the football player had been a patient until last Friday when he was discharged. However, he was readmitted yesterday in a semi-conscious condition.

Former Ball Player
Dies While Hunting

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 5 (P)—John Barthold, 67, a former pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, collapsed and died yesterday while hunting at nearby Fairview Village.

Montgomery County Coroner W. J. Rushong said Barthold's death was due to a heart attack. Three of Pennsylvania's four other hunting season fatalities since the start of the small game season last Friday have been listed as heart attack cases.

Barthold, after playing with the A's, was sent to Harrisburg in the Tri-State league but was forced to quit baseball after being hit by a pitched ball at Wilmington, Del. He subsequently became a policeman and rose to the post of inspector on the Philadelphia Police Department, from which he retired in 1931.

Warns Detroit Is On Rebound

Villanova, Pa., Nov. 5 (P)—Scott Frank Bukowski of Villanova college warned the Wildcats' football team today that the University of Detroit will be on the rebound when the two teams clash Friday night in Detroit.

Bukowski, who scouted Detroit when they barely lost 21 to 20 to Marquette, said the Tigers were "the best blocking team I've ever seen." It was Detroit's second loss in seven games.

How "HALF BULLETS" SAVED THE LIFE of DANIEL BOONE

The famous Kentucky pioneer was once held captive by the Indians, in the dead of winter, 200 miles from home.

He was made the tribe's hunter. Each day he was given one bullet only and a single charge of powder, to guard against his escape. But Boone was smart—and thrifty. He stalked the game closer, killed with half-bullets, saved ammunition.

Then one morning he escaped, outracing his pursuers for five days, living on game killed with his half-bullets, and reached Boonesboro.

TRUMAN FACES HARD SLEDDING FROM CONGRESS

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—All the news about Congress today was bad news for President Truman and whatever plans he has had for running the country in the next two years.

As the final results of yesterday's elections dribbled in today, it became clear to everyone that the Republicans had won a majority—and therefore control—in the House.

This Republican House victory alone—without the Republican triumph in the Senate which seemed within reach as dawn broke over Mr. Truman—was enough to box him up.

He had had tough enough going—since he became President in April, 1945—with a Congress where both Houses were dominated by his own Democrats.

(A lot of his suggestions got mislaid or waylaid in that Democratic Congress of his. Some went through. But many were ignored or voted down by Democrats and Republicans gangling up.)

Right off the bat Mr. Truman knew the Republicans, winners in the House, would set out to take full charge by appointing a speaker.

Then they'd rearrange the important committees, naming Republican chairmen, and making sure that every committee had a majority of Republicans on it.

Even if the Republicans won only the House, and not the Senate, there'd be trouble enough for Mr. Truman, as he well knew. Both Houses have to approve a bill before it can become law.

Republican victory in both Houses would be just a double dose of head ache.

True, any President can veto any bill passed by Congress but Congress can pass it over his veto if two-thirds of the members vote to do so.

Getting a two-thirds vote to override a veto isn't easy, so when a President of one party uses a veto lavishly to knock down the work of a Congress dominated by another party, they can cancel each other out.

The Republicans in Congress can be depended upon to try to get through legislation of their own, somehow, because they'll be thinking of the 1948 Presidential-Congressional elections.

Two years from now they'll be trying to capture not only House and Senate by the Presidency, also.

Defeats His CIO Opponent By 15,000

Beaver, Pa., Nov. 6 (AP)—Republican Representative Louis E. Graham won re-election to his 25th Congressional district seat in yesterday's election by polling 15,000 votes more than his Democratic opponent, Samuel G. Neff, Steelworkers union leader who had the support of the CIO. Virtually complete returns gave Graham 53,576 to 38,781 for Neff.

Graham, New Castle native who has served three terms, defeated Neff, Ellwood City steel worker, by only about 1,100 votes in the last Congressional election.

The winner is a former county district attorney, U. S. attorney at Pittsburgh and a special deputy U. S. attorney general. He ranks high on the house judiciary committee.

Confesses Theft; No Prosecution

San Francisco, Nov. 6 (AP)—A 46-year-old former postoffice clerk has confessed in full, postal inspectors said today, that he stole $40,000 in cash from a mail sack back in 1937.

But, they explained that he cannot be prosecuted for the theft because no indictment was returned within the three-year period specified by the statute of limitations.

However, U. S. Treasury officials were interested in the case—because the man failed to pay income tax on the $40,000.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Three children were born at the Warner hospital this morning. They included: to Mr. and Mrs. Newton E. Brethaupt, Gettysburg R. 2, a daughter; to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stone, Littlestown, a son, and to Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Beam, Aspers, a daughter.

A daughter, Barbara Ellen, was born Tuesday afternoon at the Warner hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Grayson Main, Gettysburg R. 4. Mrs. Main is the former Ellen M. Eyer.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Morton Storm, New Oxford R. 1, Tuesday night at the Hanover hospital.

Sgt. Harold Culp is spending a 20-day terminal leave with his family at their home, 157 North Stratton street. Sergeant Culp entered the Army 18 months ago and served with the military intelligence branch.

The Board of Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church school will hold its monthly business meeting this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Miss Alice Snyder, 217 Baltimore street.

FOREIGN POLICY NOT AFFECTED BY BALLOTING

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR. (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Although Europe was reported anxious because of the trends of American politics, yesterday's vote actually would seem to mean very little regarding U. S. foreign policy.

The world seldom expects British elections to have any major effect on the "traditional" empire policy, but it has been popular to speak of the United States as having "no foreign policy," and to expect her to veer with the beliefs of whichever party may be in power. But the U. S. has been developing, if slowly, a very definite foreign policy for a good many years now. There is every evidence that it is a policy of the people and therefore mandatory on either party.

There are two great fears abroad, as expressed in the foreign press and by delegates to the international conferences now under way in New York.

One is that America will become disgusted with its efforts to set the world aright and again turn to isolationism. The cooperation of both parties in the conduct of foreign policy and in efforts to establish the United Nations is the best evidence that the American people have made up their minds on this subject and that the party leaders know it.

Fear A Depression

The second great fear is a depression in America which would have world-wide repercussions. Here is where, to foreigners, the Republicans are suspect. They don't know but what there might be a tendency for the GOP, in the light of its tradition, to lean on higher tariffs and to recede from the present American policy of promoting free trade. The only Republican answer to this, so far, lies in the votes which supported the United Nations, the world banking and foreign exchange agreements, and the importance Congress placed on Britain's promises of revision of her own Commonwealth trade barriers at the time the loan was approved.

As long as the American people seem even fairly well united on foreign policy, and they do seem to be now, other nations may ease their minds by remembering that political parties are hired to administer, not rule, in America.

BRITISH CLAIM 100 SHIPS WILL AID REFUGEES

By CARTER DAVIDSON

Haifa, Nov. 6 (AP)—British Naval Intelligence Officers have asserted that at least 100 ships, many paid for with money raised in America, have been purchased by Jewish underground organizations to carry refugee immigrants from Europe to Palestine.

Officers said they had a list of 100 ships, "most of them unseaworthy," which had been bought for the refugee traffic and which now are lying in Southern European ports.

Methods for halting the unauthorized immigration of Jewish refugees to Palestine will be discussed this week at Malta at a conference of naval authorities under Admiral Sir Algonson Willis, commander in chief of the British Mediterranean fleet. It is expected that Palestine police will be represented.

Five officers of the Palestine police force's criminal investigation division yesterday flew to Rome to help investigate the recent blasting of the British embassy in the Italian capital, which a "communique" purportedly distributed by Ir-gun Zvai Leumi said had been done by that Jewish underground organization.

The "communique" said the embassy was "a center of anti-Jewish intrigue" and that the bombing represented "the opening of the Jewish military front."

After completing their work in Rome the Palestine police officers are expected to join the Malta conference.

Naval intelligence officers said that the main ports in which refugee ships are now lying are Marseille, Genoa, Trieste and Piraeus.

It's not only wise, but it's downright important to give your car a complete pre-winter check-up and servicing. This past summer of unrationed driving has taken a lot out of it. Winter's almost here and winter, too, is hard on a car. Add the fact that you probably don't know yet just when you'll have a new car...and you see that proper care to save that car is an important "must" to see you through! See your neighborhood Esso Dealer now!

- UNEXCELLED ESSO MOTOR OIL. It's extra tough for engine protection...extra free-flowing for quick starts in cold weather!
- EXPERT CHASSIS LUBRICATION. You need fresh grease of the correct grade properly applied at every lubrication point from front to rear. Let your Esso Dealer do it now!
- BATTERY CHECK-UP. Cold weather starting calls for a full-powered battery! Don't let yours let you down. Now's the time to test and inspect it; recharge if needed!
- RADIATOR CARE. Radiator trouble can mean costly repairs. Be sure you have sufficient anti-freeze all winter...and an inspection for leaks or damage now.
- TIRE INSPECTION. Now's the sensible time to replace smooth ones with new, deep-tread ATLAS Tires for safer winter driving. They're still short so act soon!

Found only in Esso Gasolines!... Patented Esso Solvent Oil is a special ingredient used only in Esso and Esso Extra Gasolines. It helps keep engines cleaner, smoother-running. Here's extra protection at no extra cost—in gasoline that are famous for quick cold weather starting, power and long mileage! Yours at the red-white-and-blue sign of Happy Motoring!

TRUMAN FACES HARD SLEDDING FROM CONGRESS

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—All the news about Congress today was bad news for President Truman and whatever plans he has had for running the country in the next two years.

As the final results of yesterday's elections trickled in today, it became clear to everyone that the Republicans had won a majority—and therefore control—in the House.

This Republican House victory, alone without the Republican triumph in the Senate which seemed within reach as dawn broke over Mr. Truman—was enough to box him up.

He had had tough enough going—since he became President in April, 1945—with a Congress where both Houses were dominated by his own Democrats.

A lot of his suggestions got muddled or waylaid in that Democratic Congress of his. Some went through. But many were ignored or voted down by Democrats and Republicans going up.

Right off the bat Mr. Truman knew the Republicans, winners in the House, would set out to take full charge by appointing a speaker.

Then they'd rearrange the important committees, naming Republican chairman, and making sure that every committee had a majority of Republicans on it.

Even if the Republicans won only the House, and not the Senate, there'd be trouble enough for Mr. Truman, as he well knew. Both Houses have to approve a bill before it can become law.

Republican victory in both Houses would be just a double dose of headache.

True, any President can veto any bill passed by Congress but Congress can pass it over his veto if two-thirds of the members vote to do so.

Getting a two-thirds vote to override a veto isn't easy, so when a President of one party uses a veto lavishly to knock down the work of a Congress dominated by another party, they can cancel each other out.

The Republicans in Congress can be depended upon to try to get through legislation of their own somehow, because they'll be thinking of the 1948 Presidential Congressional elections.

Two years from now they'll be trying to capture not only House and Senate by the Presidency, also.

Defeats His CIO Opponent By 15,000

Beaver, Pa., Nov. 6 (AP)—Republican Representative Louis E. Graham won re-election to his 25th Congressional district seat in yesterday's election by polling 15,000 votes more than his Democratic opponent, Samuel G. Neff, Steelworkers union leader who had the support of the CIO. Virtually complete returns gave Graham 53,376 to 38,376 for Neff.

Graham, New Castle native who has served three terms, defeated Neff, Ellwood City steel worker, by only about 1,100 votes in the last Congressional election.

The winner is a former county district attorney, U. S. attorney at Pottsville and a special deputy U. S. attorney general. He ranks high on the house judiciary committee.

Confesses Theft; No Prosecution

San Francisco, Nov. 6 (AP)—A 46-year-old former postoffice clerk has confessed in full postal inspectors said today, that he stole $40,000 in cash from a mail sack back in 1937. But, they explained that he cannot be prosecuted for the theft because no indictment was returned within the three-year period specified by the statute of limitations.

However, U. S. Treasury officials were interested in the case—because the man failed to pay income tax on the $40,000.

FOREIGN POLICY NOT AFFECTED BY BALLOTING

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Although Europe was reported anxious because of the trends of American politics, yesterday's vote actually would seem to mean very little regarding U. S. foreign policy.

The world seldom expects British elections to have any major effect on the "traditional" empire policy, but it has been popular to speak of the United States as having "no foreign policy," and to expect her to veer with the beliefs of whichever party may be in power. But the U. S. has been developing, if slowly, a very definite foreign policy for a good many years now. There is every evidence that it is a policy of the people and therefore mandatory on either party.

There are two great fears abroad, as expressed in the foreign press and by delegates to the international conferences now under way in New York.

One is that America will become disgusted with its efforts to set the world right and again turn to isolationism. The cooperation of both parties in the conduct of foreign policy and in efforts to establish the United Nations is the best evidence that the American people have made up their minds on this subject and that the party leaders know it.

Fear A Depression

The second great fear is a depression in America which would have world-wide repercussions. Here is where, to foreigners, the Republicans are suspect. They don't know but what there might be a tendency for the GOP, in the light of its tradition, to lean on higher tariffs and to recede from the present American policy of promoting freer trade. The only Republican answer to this, so far, lies in the votes which supported the United Nations, the world banking and foreign exchange agreements, and the importance Congress placed on Britain's promises of revision of her own Commonwealth trade barriers at the time the loan was approved.

As long as the American people seem even fairly well united on foreign policy, and they do seem to be, now other nations may ease their minds by remembering that political parties are hired to administer, not rule, in America.

There are four railroad systems in the United Kingdom with a total mileage of 29,000.

New Oxford

New Oxford: Charles W. Altman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Altman, a veteran of overseas duty in World War II, is showing improvement after several weeks of medical treatment at a New Jersey hospital. The veteran and his wife have been residing in York.

Blaine W. Miller, a son of Mrs. Lulu Miller, is now serving as head pharmacist at a station hospital in Rome. The young man, who has been with the army in Italy for a time, is a graduate of the pharmacy department of Temple University, Philadelphia, and did pharmaceutical work in York before entering the army.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Alwine, near town, whose family was among the best represented of this section in World War II, observed their 29th wedding anniversary on Sunday.

One of their children in uniform is Vernon Alwine, who remains in the Army Nurse Corps in El Paso, Texas, has been on leave at her home.

Mrs. LeRoy Rite entertained the local Garden club at her home early this week.

The Rosary society of St. Mary's Catholic church conducted a party recently for the benefit of the Sisters of Mercy who teach at the parochial school.

Mrs. Jeanne Fesser entertained fellow members of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Lutheran church, during the week at her home.

Children of St. Mary's Parochial school, taught by the Sisters of Mercy, were given a holiday on Friday because of the observance by the Catholic Church of the Feast of All Saints.

Mrs. C. Clark Brown who resided here before the death of her husband but more lately made her home in Philadelphia, will again be a member of the community, having rented the Racine apartment on Carlisle street.

BRITISH CLAIM 100 SHIPS WILL AID REFUGEES

By CARTER DAVIDSON

Haifa, Nov. 6 (AP)—British Naval Intelligence Officers have asserted that at least 100 ships, many paid for with money raised in America, have been purchased by Jewish underground organizations to carry refugees from Europe to Palestine.

Officers said they had a list of 100 ships, "most of them unseaworthy," which had been bought for the refugee traffic and which now are lying in Southern European ports.

Methods for halting the unauthorized immigration of Jewish refugees to Palestine will be discussed this week at Malta at a conference of naval authorities under Admiral Sir Algernon Willis, commander in chief of the British Mediterranean fleet. It is expected that Palestine police will be represented.

Five officers of the Palestine police forces criminal investigation division yesterday flew to Rome to help investigate the recent blasting of the British embassy in the Italian capital, which a "communiqué" purportedly distributed by Irigun Zai Leumi said had been done by that Jewish underground organization.

The "communiqué" said the embassy was blown up by the "Jewish underground organization."

BOY, 6, BADLY INJURED WHEN HIT BY TRUCK

Four accidents on Adams county highways were investigated Tuesday and today by members of the local substation of the state police.

Five persons were injured in the crashes with Boy Shank, six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Shank, Hanover R. 3, the only one of the five to be seriously hurt.

The Shank child suffered a possible skull fracture, chest injuries and lacerations of the scalp when he was struck by a truck driven by Kenneth S. Severson, 40, Hanover, about three miles north of Hanover on the Hanover-Carlisle highway Tuesday morning.

Struck By Truck
Severson told police that he saw the child standing along the side of the road some distance ahead and thought he was waiting for a school bus which the truck had passed some time before. When the truck was about ten feet from the child, the youngster started across the road to join companions alighting from a car. A fender of the truck struck him, throwing him about ten feet, police said. Mrs. E. H. Ballew, Abbottstown, a passing motorist, took the child to the Hanover hospital where he was admitted as a patient.

Mrs. Nina Freeman, Toronto, Canada, and Mrs. William E. Swanger, Lebanon, both suffered bruises when two cars collided at 9:40 o'clock this morning at the guide station near Con's Tourist camp, one mile north of here on the Harrisburg road.

Rear-end Collision
Investigating officers said that Harry Pringle, 80, Toronto, Canada, going south on the road, upon seeing the Battlefield guides there, believed that she had to stop and stepped on her brakes. When she did so a car driven by William E. Swanger, Lebanon, which was following, crashed into the rear of the Pringle car. Total damage was $200.
Henry J. Banford, 21, Baltimore, suffered lacerations of the head and Charles Shuminski, 19, also of Baltimore, suffered lacerations of the scalp, forehead, nose and lip, when the car in which they were driving overturned four miles north of Gettysburg on the Harrisburg road at 4:20 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Both were treated at the Warner hospital.

Banford, who was driving the vehicle, told the police he was going south when a car headed north forced him off the road onto the berm. When he attempted to swing back to the road, Banford said, the car went out of control, crossed the road and upset in a "dirt road. Damage was estimated at $300.

Oscar G. Griffin, Abbottstown, was charged with reckless driving before Justice of the Peace W. D. Brown, Scran township, as a result of an accident at 12:15 o'clock this morning five miles east of here on the Lincoln highway. Griffin, police say, was driving east and attempted to pass a car driven by Harry P. Pulliam, Elkhart, Va. The right front fender of the Griffin car struck the left rear fender of the Pulliam vehicle. Damage was estimated to total $100.

Albert Eugene Shaffer, New Cumberland, was charged by the state police before Justice of the Peace W. D. Brown, with making an improper pass.

County Vote

burg, the post to which he won reelection Tuesday.

Political observers who jammed the courthouse until the count of county returns was completed early this morning noted several unusual facts about Tuesday's voting in this county. The number of votes cast was far above that for the last gubernatorial election when only 57 per cent of the registered voters in the county went to the polls.

Republican districts piled up some of their largest majorities in years while Democratic districts either gave slim leads or, in the case of Franklin township and New Oxford borough, gave a majority of their votes to Governor Martin and then went down the line for the Democratic candidates for the other offices.

The short ballot and the large number of straight tickets sped the count Tuesday night so that by 12:30 a. m. today, all of the 42 districts in the county had reported.

The first report came from Fairfield by telephone at 9 o'clock and Abbottstown was received a few minutes later. The first election board to reach the courthouse was that of the second district of Hamilton township. The first ward of Littlestown came in by telephone at 12:30 a. m. completing the tabulation. The election board returned reached the courthouse by 1 a. m.

The largest vote turned out by any district in the county was in the Republican second ward of Gettysburg in which both Colonel Rice and Mr. Brehm reside. A total of 704 voters cast their ballots there and gave leads to the Republican candidates.

The smallest vote in the county was in the second district of Hamilton township where only 38 ballots were cast. Democrats carried that district.

The official count of Tuesday's returns begins at the courthouse Friday at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pitzer, Eberrath apartments, are planning to move to the Donley property, vacated by Mrs. Arnold, within the next few weeks.

K. of C. Councils Confer 2nd Degree

Hanover council, No. 871, and McSherrystown council, No. 2551, Knights of Columbus, joined in conferring the Second degree of that order upon a class of 42 candidates at rites conducted Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the K. of C. home in McSherrystown.

A number of speakers addressed the knights. Among them were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick P. McGee, McSherrystown; the Rev. Raymond F. Gallagher, Hanover; District Deputy Gowan, Hanover; Past District Deputy Albert E. Weaver, McSherrystown; Grand Knight Smith and Bernard Eck, Hanover; Grand Knight Bernard Noel and Brook Yantis, McSherrystown.

Following the meeting and the initiation a luncheon was served.

IOOF Initiates Nine Candidates

Gettysburg lodge No. 124, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, held its first initiation of candidates on Tuesday evening, when the initiatory degree was conferred upon a class of nine novitiates. The work was under the direction of Captain David A. Tawney and a complete complement of staff members.

Those receiving the degree were: Harry E. Bender, Charles A. Fridinger, Samuel T. Kessel, Richard B. Naugle, George R. Ridinger, Willis N. Schwartz, Douglas Smith, Clyde R. Spangler and Eugene A. Trostle. On succeeding lodge nights there will be the conferral of the first, second and third degrees, respectively.

Girl's Leg Broken In Traffic Mishap

Joan Praff, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Praff, Hanover, received a fractured right leg, and brush burns Tuesday at 3 p. m. as she crossed in front of a car on Main street, McSherrystown, near the children's academy.

Police in McSherrystown reported that the youngster crossed from the north to the south side of the street from behind a Hanover-McSherrystown bus moving slowly westward just before it made its turn for the trip back to Hanover.

Dwight Sites, Hanover R. 3, operator of the vehicle which struck the child, was driving east toward Hanover at the time of the accident. The child was taken to the Hanover hospital by ambulance for treatment and admission.

Weddings

Houck-Zinn

Miss Margaret V. Zinn, a daughter of Mrs. Emory Schwartz and the late W. Lloyd Zinn, Hanover, was married recently to Paul E. Houck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Houck, Hampstead, Md., with a single ring ceremony performed at the Church of the Brethren, Westminster, Md., by the Rev. George Early.

The bride, wearing a beige wool street-length dress with harmonizing accessories and a gardenia and Tulleman rose corsage, had as her maid of honor Miss Margaret Houck, a sister of the bridegroom. Another sister of Mr. Houck, Mrs. Lester Buffington, acted as organist for the ceremony.

The couple, having taken a wedding trip to points South, will make their home in Baltimore where Mr. Houck has a position.

The bride is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Zinn, late of East Berlin where her sister, Mrs. Glenn A. Weaver, now resides.

Ebersole-Livingston

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Romaine Livingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Gochenour, East Berlin R. 1, to Gerald Ebersole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ebersole, East Berlin R. 1.

The ceremony was performed Saturday, October 26, in the parsonage of the Evangelical church, Wellsville, by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Schectery.

Mrs. Ebersole is a graduate of East Berlin high school and of the Harrisburg hospital school of nursing. Mr. Ebersole also graduated from East Berlin school and from Penn State where he majored in agronomy.

The newlyweds spent their honeymoon at Niagara Falls and northwestern points in Pennsylvania.

DEATH

John I. Wildasin

John I. Wildasin, 80, a retired carpenter, died at 6 p. m. Tuesday at his home, Hanover R. 3. Death was due to a stroke which he suffered Friday morning.

Mr. Wildasin, who retired from carpentering about 10 years ago, was a member of St. Paul's (Dubs) Lutheran church. He was a son of the late Peter and Margaret Bollinger Wildasin.

The following survive: Three daughters, Mrs. John Baumgardner, Hanover R. 3; Mrs. Raymond Shaeffer, Hanover, and Mrs. John Marble, Hanover R. 2; three sons, John Wildasin, Hanover R. 2; George Wildasin, New Oxford R. 2, and Paul Wildasin, Hanover; 20 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren; one brother, Milton Wildasin, Hanover.

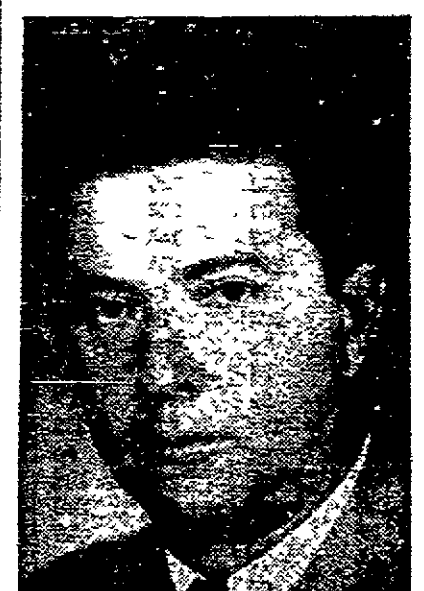

Funeral services Friday at 10 a. m. with brief rites from the Pitzer funeral home and concluding obsequies at St. Paul's (Dubs) Lutheran church, the Rev. A. M. Hollinger, pastor, officiating. Interment in St. Paul's (Dubs) cemetery.

NAMED SUPERVISOR

J. Monroe Nell, Strabon township, has been appointed supervisor of that township by the supervisors, Robert Trimmer, president and James E. Ford, according to official notification filed today in the office of the register and recorder at the court house. Nell will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation on October 14 of Roy S. Stock. His term will expire January 1, 1950. The certificate was filed by R. P. Denrick, secretary of the board.

Election Briefs

In the first ward of Littlestown, the Republicans were "voting 'em straight' on Tuesday. The election board's official return sheets showed that 222 Republicans voted in that ward and there were 222 straight Republican tickets counted.

Gettysburg has the only all-woman election board in the county. Only women are members of the board that handles the voting in the Third ward here. There are many all-male boards in the county while a number of others have one or two women members.

The second precinct of the First ward in Gettysburg was the first town district to report Tuesday night. The Second ward—with the largest vote of any in the county—was next. The first precinct of the First ward reported next and the Third ward completed the town figures before 11:30 p. m.

Both GOP County Chairman John H. Basehore and State Committeeman J. Frank Stonaker wound up the campaign with severe headaches by midnight Tuesday. Both admitted the cause must have been the high pressure under which they had been working to carry the county for the GOP. There was nothing about the election returns to cause any GOP headaches here. Speakers had said throughout the campaign "the eyes of the state" were on Adams county, because it is the home of Col. John S. Rice.

A local physician is a happy Republican today. According to reports he is said to have placed a one-sided wager with a minister that he (the physician) would buy anything the minister's church needed if the GOP lost. The minister is reported to have planned to ask for a $5,000 stained glass window if the Democrats won the election.

The estimated cost of the poll was 15 cents per ballot in Adams county. This figure was lower than in many elections, because of the heavier vote. The larger the vote, the lower the cost per individual ballot. Commissioners' Clerk Clarence C. Smith reported.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6 (P)—Herbert M. Moyer, secretary of the Philadelphia Political action committee, said today the committee would take steps to prevent Gov. Edward Martin U. S. senator-elect from taking his seat in the Senate.

Moyer added the action would be "on the same basis that kept William S. Vare from service in the Senate in 1928."

Vare, a Republican, was elected to the Senate from Pennsylvania in 1926 and subsequently was denied his seat after a national scandal based on charges by the late Gov. Gifford Pinchot that Vare's office "was partly won and partly stolen."

Waynesburg, Pa., Nov. 6 (P)—The precinct of Ruff Creek, Greene county, in which Governor Edward Martin was born, gave its native son a vote of more than 2 to 1 yesterday in his race for the U. S. Senate, despite a heavy preponderance of Democrats registered in the precinct.

Republican Martin got 92 votes, Democrat Joseph F. Guffey, seeking reelection, got 37.

Governor Martin was born on a farm five miles from the country store, which is used as a polling place.

New Bloomfield, Pa., Nov. 6 (P)—Voters of four rural Perry county communities balloted today in favor of forming a union school district. The proposal carried in Blair borough and in Jackson, Madison, and Sandy Hill townships.

Red Cross Will Elect November 14

Officers for the coming year will be elected at a meeting of the general membership of the Adams County Red Cross to be held at 8 o'clock on the night of November 14 at the court house.

A meeting of the board of directors of the organization will be held at the same place one half hour before the general session is scheduled to begin.

ISSUE ESTATE LETTERS

Letters of administration on the estate of George W. Staveley, Littlestown, who died October 28, were issued at the court house today to the widow, M. Julia Staveley. Besides the widow, one sister, three brothers, three nieces and two nephews survive.

The United Kingdom has 179,630 miles of highways.

Upper Communities

Election of officers for 1947 will feature the November meeting of the Bendersville Community Fire company, which will be held in the Firemen's hall this evening at 7:30. The earlier hour of meeting is in line with the company's program for the winter months. All members are urged to attend this meeting as the December meeting will probably be omitted due to the deer hunting season.

The entertainment committee will show moving pictures and provide other entertainment at this meeting and subsequent ones during the winter when the business session does not require as much time as it does during the spring and summer. Sandwiches, ice cream and coffee will be served this evening.

The King's Daughters class of Trinity Lutheran Sunday school, Arendtsville, will meet Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Raymond M. Hale, with Mrs. John Frederick and Mrs. Raymond M. Hale as the associate hostesses.

Miss Judy Shetter was the honored guest at a party held Tuesday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shetter, in Biglerville in celebration of her ninth birthday anniversary. The guests included the Misses Sandra Lower, Judy Crist, Nancy Arnold, Elaine Stoner, Lola Ann Hildebrand, Freda Warner, Jacqueline Slaybaugh, Doris Heller, Evelyn Heller, Patty Guise and Jeanne Kuykendall.

Pvt. Ralph Sandoe, Jr., is spending a week's furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sandoe, of Biglerville, after which he will leave to report at Camp Stoneham, California.

H. M. Diveley, of Gettysburg, Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. Diveley and Dale Sollenberger have returned from Somerset county where they were called over the week-end by the illness of J. C. Diveley.

The Pathfinder class of St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday school, Biglerville, met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles E. Rouzer with Mrs. Warren K. Knack as the associate hostess.

Mr. Huslander, director of the guidance department of the state department of Public Instruction is spending some time in Biglerville observing the instruction at the Biglerville schools.

The Upper County Lions club observed Daughters' Night Tuesday evening at their regular meeting in the Biglerville high school building. Sixty-five members and guests attended the session. The program was in charge of the education committee which comprises L. V. Stock, Robert Lott and Clyde McCauslin. Edward D. Young, Waywallopen, entertained with a program of magic.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kenard, Phillipsburg, were week-end guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Wilson, Quaker Valley.

Ralph Eckenrode has assumed his duties as head of the commercial department at Biglerville high school succeeding Dale Smith who resigned to accept a position at Lansdowne. Mr. Eckenrode has moved his family from Chambersburg to the Ditzler apartments, Biglerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert With and sons, Herbie and Billie, spent the week-end in Allentown where they attended the wedding of Miss Arlene Butz and Walter Hessler of Allentown. A reception was held at the Sarco club with over 200 in attendance following the wedding. The newly married couple will reside in Stroudsburg.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Black were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brinkerhoff, Dillsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Reynolds and children, Eugene, Jr., Patsy and Nancy, of Ladimore.

Hospital Report

Lloyd Forney, 26, Littlestown R. 1, suffered a laceration of the right big toe Tuesday afternoon while cutting wood at his home. He was treated at the Warner hospital.

Those admitted to the hospital include Mary Adams, Fairfield R. 2; Gerald Maus, Gettysburg R. 1; Mrs. Newton E. Brethaupt, Littlestown R. 2; Mrs. Francis Stone, Littlestown; Mrs. Forrest Bream, Aspers, and Mrs. Grasson Main, Gettysburg R. 4.

Those discharged included John Hann, 58 York street; Forrest Stouch, Oneida N. Y.; Mary Crouse, Littlestown R. 2; Merle Shindler, Orlanna; Joanna Robert Shultz, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Shultz, Orlanna R. 1 who will enter the University of Pennsylvania hospital; Mrs. Bernard Boyle, Emmitsburg; Mrs. Vernon F. Troxell and son, Vernon Francis, Jr., Thummont R. 1; Mrs. John C. Riley and daughter, Joan Clara, Littlestown; Mrs. Bernard Hollinger and son, Keith Hale, Fayetteville R. 1 and Mrs. Stanley Benchoff and son, Stanley Lee, Jr., Highfield, Md.

CLOSE CENTER FOR DAY
Mrs. C. B. Stover has announced that the Red Cross sewing center on East High street will be closed Friday because of the Woman's League of Gettysburg college meeting here. The room will be open next Friday as usual.

East Berlin Has Homemaker's Club

A chapter of the national and state federated organization known as the Future Homemakers of America has been organized at the East Berlin High School with Mrs. Bernice Staley, home-economics instructor, as adviser, and Mrs. Harold Sanders of the grade school faculty as faculty mother. Any girl who has studied home economics for a year or more may join.

These girls are serving as officers for the present school year: president, Nancy J. Morris; vice president, Ethel Myers; secretary, Marian Weaver; treasurer, Marian Fessel; historian, Peggy Ann Moul; reporter, Helena Young.

Other girls who have joined are: Lois Snyder, Treva Myers, Dorothy Bentzel, Charlotte L. Glarfelter, Elaine J. Hoover, Louise Spahr, Ethel Crook, Norma Kauffman, Janet Alland, Martha Eisenhart, Lois Weaver, Sylvia Barton, Sylvia Billet, Helen Burgard, Ruth Staub, Ruthetta Bierenour, Evelyn Kline-dinst and Mae Deardorff.

Town Receives

at Littlestown through a special Times service which included a public address system installed inside and outside Stonestifer's store, 12 South Queen street. P. Emory Weaver, Littlestown correspondent for The Times, and Mahlon P. "Jim" Hartzell of The Times staff in Gettysburg were in charge.

Borough police reported that there were no disturbances on the streets, with one possible exception. A telephone call was received that a fight was in progress in Center square, but the participants were gone when police arrived. There was no indication that this was due to the election.

A majority of those who gathered at the court house and elsewhere to get the returns waited until the last of the Adams county districts were in. Then the gatherings broke up quietly and quickly. The streets in the borough were deserted before 1 a. m.

Pre-election predictions of a 13,000 vote in the county were borne out almost to the digit. The total was 12,897. Clarence C. Smith, clerk of the board of county commissioners and election board said today.

Mervin C. Black Is Buried Tuesday

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the home and at the Wenksville Methodist church for Mervin C. Black, Biglerville R. 1, who died last Friday night.

The Rev. George W. Harrison, pastor of the Wenksville church, officiated, assisted by the Rev. H. O. Gotschal and the Rev. E. J. Croft, former pastors. Interment was in the cemetery adjoining the church.

Bearers were John Wenk, Guy Wenk, Emmert Warren, Francis Culp, Emory Tuckey and Harvey Zeamer.

Mrs. Hunt Going To Alumnae Meeting

When the Wilson College Alumnae Council convenes at Wilson this week-end, Mrs. Robert M. Hunt, 19 East High street, will be in attendance as the representative of her class.

Headed by President Paul Swain Havens and Dean Margaret Criswell Disert, a panel of student, faculty and administration speakers will report to the delegates upon Wilson's post-war program and policies. Subjects for discussion include the new experimental curriculum, under which 25 specially selected freshmen, directed by a faculty committee, are now studying.

Other events will be a reception, a tea at the president's house, and a tour of buildings recently added to the campus. Delegates will also hear students present the weekly broadcast "Wilson on the Air."

The council is convening for the first time since 1942, when the war curtailed its annual assemblies. Representatives of 4,600 Wilson alumnae will attend.

Moose Officers, Women Are Called

All officers and escorts and committee chairmen of the Women of the Moose are asked to meet at the Moose home, York street, Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Club officers said today.

Plans for a skit to be presented in connection with the anniversary celebration to be held by the Moose and Women of the Moose next week will be completed at Thursday's session.

Lions' Ladies To Be Guests Monday

Gettysburg Lions and their ladies will go to the Hoffman orphanage next Monday evening for the club's weekly dinner meeting and annual visit to the orphanage. The dinner will be served at 6:15 p. m. Edmund W. Thomas, president of the Pennsylvania State Bankers association and the First National bank of Gettysburg, will be the speaker.

County Pupils To Get Transportation

Parents of 23 high school students of Liberty and Hamilton townships, met Monday night at Washington Township high school at Hooverville, near Waynesboro, with members of their respective school boards and with the Washington Township school board to make arrangements for transporting the students to the Washington Township school.

The Adams County students, required to furnish their own transportation to the Washington Township school in the past because township school buses cannot cross county lines, will now be transported by a chartered Potomac Motor Lines bus under a contract signed Monday night. The two Adams County districts will share the expense of chartering the bus.

Before the transportation arrangements were completed Monday the students had been hitch-hiking to the Washington township line where they were picked up by a Washington township bus. Adams county school officials said.

PREPARE FOR HOMECOMING

C. Paul Cessna, alumni secretary, has announced plans for the annual Homecoming week-end for Gettysburg college, scheduled this year for November 8 and 9.

A dinner for the executive committee of the Alumni association at the Hotel Gettysburg has been planned for Friday evening. The Alumni council, composed of a representative from each class, will meet Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock in Weidensall hall. At this gathering, William H. Patrick, '16, president of the council, will name committees for the coming year.

Because of the shortage of space, the traditional banquet and dance have been cancelled. However, the football game with Muhlenberg, Saturday at 2 p. m. in Memorial Stadium, will highlight the week-end activities. Various fraternities have planned dances or other functions and open house will be held in Weidensall Hall.

TOJO'S JAILERS KEEPING STERN GUARD ON JAPS

By TOM LAMBERT
Tokyo, (AP)—With a glance over their shoulders at Nuernberg, U. S. military police keep a close and stern watch over the last of the world's major war criminal suspects—Hideki Tojo and company.

Col. Francis Cray, Washington, D. C., passes off the question of whether security regulations have been tightened since Goering's suicide, saying it's like that one about "have you stopped beating your wife?"

Cray's men assert, however, that if constant vigilance can forestall a Goering episode "it won't happen here."

Security Routine

Here is a glimpse at the security routine as the 27 accused walk stolidly down the long, tunnel-like corridor to their cell block after their day in war crimes court.

They have just come from the war ministry building, the trial scene, in a closely-guarded bus.

Over these little men, looking anything but the arrogant conquerors of 1941-42, loom husky American military police.

Tojo, who became the very symbol of the Oriental end of the Axis, shifts his brief case from his right to his left hand, reaches inside his mustard-colored jacket, and scratches his ribs.

Take Up The Watch

Military police swing back the steel door and count them into the cell block, nodding at Mamoru Shigemitsu, he of the wooden leg who was Tojo's foreign minister at one time, limping along in the rear.

The cell block door clangs shut and the prisoners go on down the block, falling out of line to enter their small, steel-doored rooms.

The doors close and through the peep holes in each door guards take up the watch.

The defendants are checked in and out of their cells for baths, shaving, exercise and religious ceremonies.

Food Examined

They are fed well by the Japanese government, but before their generous meal of rice, fish and vegetables is handed in it's probed by guards looking for anything that might be smuggled in. Unlike the other 800 prisoners in Sugamo, these 27 men are allowed to bathe and shave daily.

Guards bring them out in groups of 12, six of whom bathe while the others shave. A guard issues each prisoner a blade for a safety razor and the blades are collected before they leave the bathroom.

There are several hundred Japanese working in Sugamo, but none has contact with the prisoners.

One Visitor Monthly

The Japanese who approach the closest are the mess attendants, who ladle food from large aluminum kettles into the prisoners' bowls. Guards watch this process carefully.

Within their cells, the defendants read, write and just sit. They can go to religious services if they wish. The prison has a Buddhist shrine and a Buddhist priest makes regular visits.

The prisoners are allowed one visitor monthly, but they must speak through a screen in a closely-guarded visitors room.

Hunterstown

Hunterstown—Mr. and Mrs. Russell Walker, Hanover, visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Englebert on Sunday.

Robert Weaver, York, visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weaver.

Rally day at the Methodist church drew a larger than usual crowd. Rev. G. W. Harrison, Bendersville, delivered the address. Next Sunday, Sunday school will be at 2 p. m. and church services at 3 p. m.

Rev. Russell Downie and daughter, Mrs. James Radel, New Jersey, visited in Hunterstown on Sunday.

The Halloween party at the home of Genevieve Witters was a success. There was dancing, singing and games. Decorations were leaves, cats and pumpkins. Everyone was in costume; refreshments were served. The guests were: Pauline Stull, Janet Criswell, Helen Criswell, Caroline Little, Polly Dietrick, Ruthetta Plank, Beverly Thomas, Gladys Little, Gloria, Dorothy, Genevieve and Cheryl Witters, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Witters, Mrs. Verne Criswell, John Stull, Eugene Reedy, Wayne Reedy, Dave and Eddie Taughinbaugh, Carl Thomas, Bernell Plank, Bruce Witters, Jr., Jerry Taughinbaugh, Donald Witters and Mr. Nevin Englebert.

Refreshments were sold on Election Day at Hunterstown.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Glock and daughters made a trip to Baltimore on Sunday to visit Mr. Glock's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Edwards, Fredericksburg, Md., visited Mrs. Annie Matthews on Saturday evening.

There will be a Halloween party at the Gun club in Hunterstown on Thursday night at 8 p. m.

Tokyo, Nov. 6 (AP)—Yokosuka, a once-forbidden site on Tokyo bay where Japan launched warships and manufactured huge naval guns and planes soon will become a factory for plows and automobile parts. The new factories will be the first civilian plants on the site.

BABY BEEVES TO BE SHOWN AT FARM SHOW

Baby beeves of Pennsylvania 4-H Club members will be on parade in all the glory of their glossy, well-groomed coats when the 31st State Farm Show is held at Harrisburg next January 13 to 17.

Competing for Farm Show money prizes and special awards by beef breeding associations, a capacity of 150 young beef animals is expected by the Farm Show Commission. According to present indications, the auction sale to follow premium awards may bring 4-H members the highest prices ever known at the Farm Show, officials predict.

Selection of baby beef steers for Farm Show entry has been under way for some weeks in various county elimination contests and the cream of the State 4-H Club crop will be displayed at the January show. A member may enter only one animal each. Entries close November 30.

Extra Awards

In addition to the usual cash awards offered as premiums by the Commission, ribbons will go to all breed champions—Aberdeen-Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn. The champion and reserve champion of each breed will compete for grand champion and reserve grand champion ribbons.

Included among the special awards for top-ranking baby beeves are as follows:

The American Hereford Association will add 25 per cent to whatever premiums are paid by the Farm Show Commission for 4-H Hereford calves in the fat classes where the Show premiums amount to $4 or more.

The American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association offers $150 for the best 30 head of calves of that breed exhibited at the 1947 Farm Show, amounts ranging from $15 down to $2; the Association also offers $50 for the Grand Champion steer of the Farm Show, provided it is an Angus.

The American Shorthorn Breeders' Association will pay an additional 25 per cent for each premium of $4 or more, and if the grand champion or reserve grand champion of the Show is a Shorthorn, cash premiums will be paid in amounts up to $50, depending upon the number of animals actually shown.

The American Hereford Association will add 25 per cent to whatever premiums are paid by the Farm Show Commission for 4-H Hereford calves in the fat classes where the Show premiums amount to $4 or more.

The American Shorthorn Breeders' Association will pay an additional 25 per cent for each premium of $4 or more, and if the grand champion or reserve grand champion of the Show is a Shorthorn, cash premiums will be paid in amounts up to $50, depending upon the number of animals actually shown.

Linoleum, Paint Prices Increased

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—Housing costs rose again today as OPA raised its price ceilings for felt base linoleum and floor and wall coverings by 12 per cent.

The agency said most of the increase resulted from higher costs of linseed oil which it added has nearly doubled in price since it was decontrolled last week.

Higher costs of this oil also accounted for a 24 per cent increase in prices of most paints announced yesterday.

BEATEN AND ROBBED

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 6 (AP)—William B. Hartnett, 49, was abducted, beaten, robbed of $600 and left unconscious beside his automobile in suburban Carcroft early Tuesday. Returning to his automobile after attending a movie, Hartnett found a man in the rear seat with a pistol. He was forced to drive to the suburbs. Hartnett fought back when struck by the intruder and was knocked unconscious.

There are approximately 3,763,592 telephones in Great Britain.

FARM CALENDAR

Trench Root Crops—Successful storage of root crops in trenches is suggested by J. O. Dutt, extension vegetable specialist of the Pennsylvania State college. Select a well-drained spot and dig a trench big enough to hold the roots to be stored. Cover first with hay, straw, leaves, or other material and then with soil. As the weather grows colder, add alternate layers of the same materials.

Harvest Clover Seed—Where the second crop of clover was not cut for hay and there is a good set of seed, it will pay to harvest the crop for seed, says J. B. R. Dickey. He emphasizes the value of home-grown clover seed of proven merit and adaptation. Yields of a half bushel or more per acre make the harvest worth while.

Clean up Gardens—This is a good time to clean up and burn all garden refuse that harbors diseases and insects, remind entomologists and plant pathologists of the Pennsylvania State college. It is very important to destroy all weeds growing in or near the garden because they are known to be hosts to insects and diseases.

Bees Need Windbreak—Protection from winds, especially wintry blasts, is needed by bees, says W. W. Clarke, extension apiculturist of the Pennsylvania State college. A natural windbreak of trees may be used, or an artificial one built with boards or cornstalks.

Make Cleaning Easier—Well-built barns, with smooth walls and ceilings, concrete floors, and steel equipment, are easier to keep clean, reminds R. J. McCall, Penn State extension agricultural engineer.

Get Ready for Logging—Prepare for winter logging operations by brushing out skidways now, say Penn State extension foresters.

Barn Ventilation Needed—Proper ventilation is needed in dairy barns, whether old or new, says J. R. Haswell, extension agricultural engineer of the Pennsylvania State college. He points out that a well-built ventilating system permits uniform circulation of the air and distributes the heat.

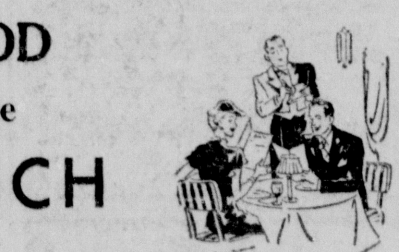

Turkey Meat Available—Heavier cold storage holdings and reduced government buying of turkey meat will offset the 15 per cent drop in turkey production this year, reminds H. H. Kauffman, extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State college. As a result, the per capita turkey meat supply will be about equal to that of last year.

Improve Farm Woodlots—Because weak, worthless, and defective trees interfere with more valuable trees, many farm woodlots are producing only a third to a half of capacity, declares W. W. Simonds, extension forester of the Pennsylvania State college.

Littlestown

Littlestown—Miss Esther M. Crouse and Miss Arveta Feeser motored to New York city over the week-end where they visited a former schoolmate of Miss Crouse at the Trap-hagen Fashion and Design school.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Lawrence spent Sunday at the home of the latter's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hare, Little. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Charles Hare, mother of Mrs. Lawrence, who had spent a week at her son's home in Little.

Mrs. Loretta Ziegler left Monday by bus for San Francisco, Cal., where she will visit her brother-in-law.

The fire siren will be tested at 7 o'clock this evening, and the Fire Company will hold a meeting at 7:30.

The Ocker-Snyder Post No. 321, American Legion, will meet tomorrow evening in the post home at 8 o'clock.

Proper thinning and cultural methods will improve the woodlot.

Prepare Tractor for Winter—If the tractor is to be used during the winter, it must be gotten ready, says R. J. McCall, extension agricultural engineer of the Pennsylvania State college. Use light oil and lubricants and provide antifreeze to prevent damage.

Feed Hay to Hogs—A good quality legume hay fed to hogs will provide proteins, vitamins, and roughage, reminds L. C. Madison, livestock extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State college. Hay improves the quality of the ration and reduces its cost.

To Train Testers—The next training course for testers in dairy herd improvement associations will be given at the Pennsylvania State college, December 9 to 21.

GIVES RECIPE FOR PUMPKIN

Pumpkin may be canned or stored, says Miss Mildred Adams, home economics extension representative, Adams county. Either way it is acceptable for pie. For storing pumpkins must be mature and free from injury. The stems are left on and the pumpkins put in a cool dry place, preferably on shelves. Pumpkins should not be more than three or four deep on the shelves.

For canning, peel, cube, and simmer pumpkin in very little water until heated through. Then pack hot in clean hot pint jars, seal, and process in boiling water 3 hours or 1 hour in pressure cooker at 10 pounds pressure.

Pumpkin that is to be used at once for pies may be baked, explains Miss Adams. For baking, cut the pumpkin in half crosswise, remove the seeds and strings, put pumpkin, shell side up, in a pan and bake until tender and it begins to fall apart. Scrape the pulp from the shell and put it through a ricer or strainer.

Miss Adams suggests the following recipe for pumpkin pie:
1 cup cooked pumpkin, three-fourths cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon ginger, three-fourths teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon flour, three eggs, beaten separately, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon nutmeg, two cups milk.

Mix dry ingredients. Add to pumpkin and egg yolks, mix well, then add milk. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in. Put into an unbaked 9-inch pie shell and bake at 425 degrees F. 20 minutes until past.

Sunday night they had a cup of coffee in the bus station. Then they sat up and talked all night. All day Monday sleet and rain kept them inside and they talked all night. All night Monday sleet and rain kept them inside and they talked some more.

Tuesday they talked themselves into getting married. A probate judge stood on the wheel of an idle bus to read the service and fellow passengers sat in the seats as guests.

BIG HAUL
Joliet, Ill., (AP)—There was only one hitch in the plans by the Cantigny post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, for the cornerstone-laying ceremonies for its new building.

Some husky thieves stole the 250-pound cornerstone.

Record Yields Of Potatoes Reported

Reports of high yields of potatoes on Pennsylvania farms continue to reach the state Department of Agriculture.

Record yields are expected in most commercial areas. According to federal-state estimates the 1946 crop of 19,596,000 bushels is within 1,359,000 of the 10-year average production for the state, 1935 to 1944. The crop will exceed 1945 production by nearly 3,000,000 bushels in spite of the fact that this year's acreage is 10,000 less than in 1945.

The average yield per acre on October 1, was indicated to be 142 bushels or 29 more than the average for 1945.

About 600 pounds of coal must be burned in a powerhouse boiler to light the average home for a year.

TOJO'S JAILERS KEEPING STERN GUARD ON JAPS

By TOM LAMBERT
Tokyo, (AP)—With a glance over their shoulders at Nuernberg, U. S. military police keep a close and stern watch over the last of the world's major war criminal suspects—Hideki Tojo and company.

Col. Francis Cray, Washington, D. C., passes off the question of whether security regulations have been tightened since Goering's suicide, saying it's like that one about "have you stopped beating your wife?"

Cray's men assert, however, that if constant vigilance can forestall a Goering episode "it won't happen here."

Security Routine
Here is a glimpse at the security routine as the 27 accused walk stolidly down the long, tunnel-like corridor to their cell block after they die in war crimes court.

They have just come from the war ministry building, the trial scene, in a closely-guarded bus. Over these little men, looking anything but the arrogant conquerors of 1941-42, loom husky American military police.

Tojo, who became the very symbol of the Oriental end of the Axis, shifts his brief case from his right to his left hand, reaches inside his mustard-colored jacket, and scratches his ribs.

Take Up The Watch
Military police swing back the steel door and count them into the cell block, nodding at Mamoru Shigemitsu, he of the wooden leg who was Tojo's foreign minister at one time, limping along in the rear.

The cell block door clangs shut and the prisoners go on down the block, falling out of line to enter their small, steel-doored rooms.

The doors close and through the peep holes in each door guards take up the watch.

The defendants are checked in and out of their cells for baths, shaving, exercise and religious ceremonies.

Food Examined
They are fed well by the Japanese government, but before their generous meal of rice, fish and vegetables is handed in it's probed by guards looking for anything that might be smuggled in, unlike the other 800 prisoners in Sugamo, these 27 men are allowed to bathe and shave daily.

Guards bring them out in groups of 12, six of whom bathe while the others shave. A guard issues each prisoner a blade for a safety razor and the blades are collected before they leave the bathroom.

There are several hundred Japanese working in Sugamo, but none has contact with the prisoners.

One Visitor Monthly
The Japanese who approach the closest are the mess attendants, who ladle food from large aluminum keukles into the prisoners' bowls. Guards watch this process carefully.

Within their cells, the defendants read, write and just sit. They can go to religious services if they wish. The prison has a Buddhist shrine and a Buddhist priest makes regular visits.

The prisoners are allowed one visitor monthly, but they must speak through a screen in a closely-guarded visitors room.

Hunterstown
Hunterstown—Mr. and Mrs. Russell Walker, Hanover, visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Englebert on Sunday.

Robert Weaver, York, visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weaver.

Rally day at the Methodist church drew a larger than usual crowd. Rev. G. W. Harrison, Bendersville, delivered the address. Next Sunday, Sunday school will be at 2 p. m. and church services at 3 p. m.

Rev. Russell Downie and daughter, Mrs. James Radel, New Jersey, visited in Hunterstown on Sunday.

The Halloween party at the home of Genevieve Witters was a success. There was dancing, singing and games. Decorations were leaves, cats and pumpkins. Everyone was in costume; refreshments were served. The guests were: Pauline Stull, Janet Griswell, Helen Crushong, Caroline Little, Polly Dietrick, Ruthetta Plank, Beverly Thomas, Gladys Little, Gloria, Dorothy, Genevieve and Cheryl Witters, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Witters, Mrs. Vernie Griswell, John Stull, Eugene Reedy, Wayne Reedy, Dave and Eddie Taughinbaugh, Carl Thomas, Bernell Plank, Bruce Witters, Jr., Jerry Taughinbaugh, Donald Witters and Mr. Nevin Englebert.

Refreshments were sold on Election Day at Hunterstown.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Glock and daughters made a trip to Baltimore on Sunday to visit Mr. Glock's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Edwards, Fredericksburg, Md., visited Mrs. Annie Matthews on Saturday evening.

There will be a Halloween party at the Gun club in Hunterstown on Thursday night at 8 p. m.

Tokyo, Nov. 6 (AP)—Yokosuka, a once-forbidden site on Tokyo bay where Japan launched warships and manufactured huge naval guns and planes soon will become a factory for plows and automobile parts. The new factories will be the first civilian plants on the site.

BABY BEEVES TO BE SHOWN AT FARM SHOW

Baby bees of Pennsylvania 4-H Club members will be on parade in all the glory of their glossy, well-groomed coats when the 31st State Farm show is held at Harrisburg next January 13 to 17.

Competing for Farm Show money prizes and special awards by beef breeding associations, a capacity of 150 young beef animals is expected by the Farm Show Commission. According to present indications, the auction sale to follow premium awards may bring 4-H members the highest prices ever known at the Farm Show, officials predict.

Selection of baby beef steers for Farm Show entry has been under way for some weeks in various county elimination contests and the cream of the State 4-H Club crop will be displayed at the January show. A member may enter only one animal each. Entries close November 30.

Extra Awards
In addition to the usual cash awards offered as premiums by the Commission, ribbons will go to all breed champions—Aberdeen-Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn. The champion and reserve champion of each breed will compete for grand champion and reserve grand champion ribbons.

Included among the special awards for top-ranking baby bees are as follows:

The American Hereford Association will add 25 per cent to whatever premiums are paid by the Farm Show Commission for 4-H Hereford calves in the fat classes wherever the Show premiums amount to $4 or more.

The American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association offers $150 for the best 30 head of calves of that breed exhibited at the 1947 Farm Show, amounts ranging from $15 down to $2; the Association also offers $50 for the Grand Champion steer of the Farm Show, provided it is an Angus.

The American Shorthorn Breeders' Association will pay an additional 25 per cent for each premium of $4 or more, and if the grand champion or reserve grand champion of the Show is a Shorthorn, cash premiums will be paid in amounts up to $50, depending upon the number of animals actually shown.

Linoleum, Paint
Prices Increased
Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—Housing costs rose again today as OPA raised its price ceilings for felt base linoleum and floor and wall coverings by 12 per cent.

The agency said most of the increase resulted from higher costs of linseed oil which it added has nearly doubled in price since it was decontrolled last week.

Higher costs of this oil also accounted for a 24 per cent increase in prices of most paints announced yesterday.

BEATEN AND ROBBED
Wilmington, Del., Nov. 6 (AP)—William B. Hartnett, 49, was abducted, beaten, robbed of $600 and left unconscious beside his automobile in suburban Carcroft early Tuesday.

Returning to his automobile after attending a movie, Hartnett found a man in the rear seat with a pistol. He was forced to drive to the suburbs. Hartnett fought back when struck by the intruder and was knocked unconscious.

THANKSGIVING ROUNDUP — Herding turkeys on horseback in cowboy fashion on a ranch near Phoenix, Ariz., are Mrs. C. W. Davis and Mrs. A. M. Sutton.

FARM CALENDAR

Trench Root Crops—Successful storage of root crops in trenches is suggested by J. O. Dutt, extension vegetable specialist of the Pennsylvania State college. Select a well-drained spot and dig a trench big enough to hold the roots to be stored. Cover first with hay, straw, leaves, or other material and then with soil. As the weather grows colder, add alternate layers of the same materials.

Harvest Clover Seed—Where the second crop of clover was not cut for hay and there is a good seed of seed, it will pay to harvest the crop for seed, says J. B. R. Dickey. He emphasizes the value of home-grown clover seed of proven merit and adaptation. Yields of a half bushel or more per acre make the harvest worth while.

Clean up Gardens—This is a good time to clean up and burn all garden refuse that harbors diseases and insects, remind entomologists and plant pathologists of the Pennsylvania State college. It is very important to destroy all weeds growing in or near the garden because they are known to be hosts to insects and diseases.

Bees Need Windbreak—Protection from winds especially wintry blasts, is needed by bees, says W. A. Dively, extension apiculturist of the Pennsylvania State college. A natural windbreak of trees may be used, or an artificial one built with boards or cornstalks.

Make Cleaning Easier—Well-built barns, with smooth walls and ceilings, concrete floors, and steel equipment, are easier to keep clean, reminds R. J. McCall, Penn State extension agricultural engineer.

Get Ready for Logging—Prepare for winter logging operations by brushing out sideways now, say Penn State extension foresters.

Barn Ventilation Needed—Proper ventilation is needed in dairy barns, whether old or new, says J. R. Haswell, extension agricultural engineer of the Pennsylvania State college. He points out that a well-built ventilating system permits uniform circulation of the air and distributes the heat.

Turkey Meat Available—Heavier cold storage holdings and reduced government buying of turkey meat will offer the 15 per cent drop in turkey production this year, reminds H. H. Improve Farm Woodlots—Because weak, worthless, and defective trees interfere with more valuable trees, many farm woodlots are producing only a third to a half of capacity, declares W. W. Simonds, extension forester of the Pennsylvania State college.

BUS ROMANCE

Garden City, Kan., Nov. 5 (AP)—John Lavore, 31, Manhattan, Kan., cattleman en route to Santa Fe, N. M., was on a bus stranded here over the week-end by a snowstorm. A few seats away was Miss Thelma (Terry) McLean, 20, Muskegon, Mich., to whom Lavore had spoken only casually.

Sunday night they had a cup of coffee in the bus station. Then they sat up and talked all night. All day Monday sleep and rain kept them inside and they talked all night. All night Monday sleep and rain kept them inside and they talked some more.

Tuesday they talked themselves into getting married. A probate judge stood on the wheel of an idle bus to read the service and fellow passengers sat in the seats as guests.

Republicans Sweep State; Gain 9 Posts In Congress; Defeat Cuffey In Senate

Philadelphia, Nov. 6 (AP)—Pennsylvania Republicans today looked joyfully over a statewide political landslide that gave them, besides virtual 100 percent of the state government, a 28-to-5 majority in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Additionally, the G. O. P. won the Senate seat held for 12 years by Joseph P. Cuffey, Democrat, in a race so close nearly complete unofficial returns were necessary to determine the winner. The district, known for its close contests, went Republican in 1944 by a scant 494 votes out of a total of 125,678. The winner of that race, Howard E. Campbell, Republican, was not a candidate for reelection.

Pick Up Six Seats
Six seats were picked up by the Republicans in Philadelphia, where five Democratic incumbents were defeated. A sixth Philadelphia Democrat, Albert S. Townsend, was defeated by Hardie Scott in a contest to succeed Michael J. Bradley, Philadelphia Democratic chairman, who was not a candidate for reelection.

Three other seats were snatched from Democratic control in the 10th where James P. Scoblick of Archbald won over Frank N. Murray of Scranton; in the 11th where Mitchell Jenkins of Trucksville defeated incumbent Daniel J. Flood of Wilkes-Barre; and in the 13th where Frederick A. Muhlenberg of Sinking Spring, R. D. unseated Daniel K. Hock of Reading, who was seeking a third term.

Defeated also in the 13th was the lone socialist candidate for Congress, Raymond S. Hofes of Reading.

Retain Spring Victory
The Republicans also retained possession of the 23rd district seat which they captured from the Democrats in a special election last May. There William J. Crew, Uniontown Republican, defeated John W. Rankin, Uniontown Democrat. Last May Carl H. Hoffman, Republican, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of J. Buel Snyder, veteran Democrat. Hoffman was not a candidate for reelection.

The winners, with (X) designating incumbents:
1st, James Gallagher, Philadelphia (R).
2nd, Robert N. McGarvey, Philadelphia (R).
3d, Hardie Scott, Philadelphia (R).
4th, Franklin J. Maloney, Philadelphia (R).

Future Plans
As governor, Duff plans an immense extension of the commonwealth nursery service.

Up at 6 o'clock every morning, Mrs. Duff make sure her husband has a good breakfast of fruit juice, oatmeal, bacon, toast and tea—and sometimes buckwheat cakes—when he comes down at 7.

Jim Duff and Jean Taylor Duff first met when he was a freshman at Princeton. She recalled:

"We met at a New Year's Eve party. Then we didn't see each other for six years. We kept hearing about each other off and on but it wasn't until Jim came to my home town, Beaver, for another dance that we met again. A year later, we married."

hundreds of soldiers and yet none without limbs. Why, at home, we are constantly seeing the poor soldiers, hobbling along with one leg, or none, or armless as the case may be. When I remarked the difference I was reminded that I was in the land of plenty where limbs and everything else were easily gotten by all.

"Such homage I never saw or imagined could be shown to any one person as the people bestow upon Lincoln. The very mention of his name brings forth shouts of applause. No doubt he will be the next President, even his enemies acknowledge him to be an honest man. And no doubt the popular tide will increase as the time approaches."

The carnage about Gettysburg resulting from the battle here July 1, 2, and 3, 1863 remained to some extent for months afterward. Mrs. Roedel visited February 27, 1864 the home of John and Mary Shriver Forney on Oak Ridge, near where the peace light is now located. Iverson's North Carolina brigade had charged across John Forney's farm during the battle here. Mrs. Roedel described the scene on February 27 following:

Shallow Graves
"We spent this holy day out at John's, hardly the right way to spend the Sabbath, yet it was the only day we could all be together. I walked over part of the battlefield and to see hundreds of men buried in holes hardly deep enough to cover them is heart-rending, but such is the case, hundreds are lying around his house just in that condition. Most of them are from N. C. (North Carolina). The Union soldiers are carefully buried but the enemy lying neglected."

Other excerpts from Mrs. Roedel's diary as read by Mrs. Lewars detailed how she went to Washington and sought the aid of Thaddeus Stevens, who had been a neighbor of hers in Gettysburg when she lived there prior to her marriage, and of how she finally secured a pass to return home through the Union and Confederate lines. She arrived home in Virginia July 13, 1864, almost nine months from the date she left to come to Gettysburg upon hearing of her mother's illness. She arrived home here to find her mother had died and her father ill. About a year after her return to Wytheville her husband was killed, December 12, 1865, in an accident. She then returned to Gettysburg where she lived above what is now Shuman's drug store on Baltimore street until her death November 23, 1904.

MRS. DUFF HAS ONE HOBBY, ITS HER HUBBY JIM

Carnegie, Pa., Nov. 6 (AP)—Jean Taylor Duff, soon to become the new first lady of Pennsylvania, has had just one "hobby" the last 37 years—her husband, big Jim Duff.

Following the campaign in which her sandy-haired husband was elected, Duff said:

"She was with me every hour of this. But busy as we were, she still found time to whip up a lemon pie or some doughnuts. Jean makes the best lemon pie in the world. I've gained 18 pounds during this campaign."

The smiling auburn-haired woman—"she's the smiler in our family," says Duff—shares her husband's taste for quiet pleasure. Their rambling, 14-room home on Washington avenue is something of a key to their entire mode of life.

ALLEGHENY IN GOP COLUMN BY HEAVY MARGIN

Pittsburgh, Nov. 6 (AP)—Allegheny county, for 15 years Pennsylvania's Democratic stronghold, gave substantial majorities to the victorious Republican state ticket headed by Edward Martin and James H. Duff.

The Republican surge swept western Pennsylvania in yesterday's election. Out of 26 counties in the western tier, only four—Industrial Cambria, Fayette, Greene and Washington—turned in ballot-leads for losing Senator Joseph P. Cuffey, and the Democratic margin there was less than usual.

In Allegheny, returns from 991 precincts out of 1027 were:

For Senator:
Cuffey (D) 216,306; Martin 267,131.

For governor, in the same number of precincts, Duff polled 261,932 as against 222,860 for the Democratic candidate, John S. Rice.

Split Ballots
Daniel B. Strickler, successful Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, and William S. Livengood, Republican victor in the contest for secretary of internal affairs, gained smaller majorities—apparently due to split-ballot voting by the so-called independent voters.

The approximate 45,000 vote margin for the Republican banner-carriers in strike-battered Allegheny, contrasted with the fact that in 1942 the chief Democratic candidates swept the county by around 25,000 votes.

Candidates backed by the CIO political action committee were among those upset by the Republican tide. But State Senator Elmer J. Holland, a leader in PAC activity, was among the Democrats who broke through to victory. He attributed the change to a general Republican trend.

Lawrence Optimistic
Mayor David L. Lawrence, former Democratic state chairman, commented:

"We'll get them next year."

The Republicans gained no Congressmen in Allegheny county, where they have had three of the five seats, but they gained ten seats in the state house of representatives.

In the most stunning upset, Democratic County Chairman B. B. McGinnis lost his fight for reelection to a fourth term in the state Senate. He was beaten by 400 votes by a Republican, Theodore H. Doehla, 57, bakery company executive.

In western Pennsylvania counties outside Allegheny, three new congressmen, all Republicans, were elected and five incumbents, three of them Republicans, were returned to office.

New House Members
The new House members are:

James E. Van Zandt, pre-war congressman from Altoona, who defeated Democrat John A. Sharlie, also of Altoona, in the Blair-Centre-Clearfield district.

—Carroll D. Kearns, Farrell school superintendent, who piled up a lead of over 22,000 in Erie, Crawford and Mercer counties and carried normally Democratic Erie City to defeat Charles W. Webb, of Meadville.

William J. Crow, of Uniontown defeated John W. Rankin, Democratic county commissioner in Fayette county.

Re-elected congressmen were: Republicans Harve Tibbott, Ebensburg drugist, Louis E. Graham, Beaver, and Leon H. Gavin, Oil City; and Democrats Thomas E. Morgan, Fredericktown, and Augustine B. Kelley.

meeting during Mrs. Lewars' talk.

A copy of two fragments of manuscript found by Arthur Warrman, executive of the estate of Emma Dustman Hartzell recently was read by Attorney L. Meals. The paper was a fragment of a report by Henry Dustman, father of Mrs. Hartzell, whose home was on Oak Ridge near the Lutheran seminary, telling of how John Burns, only Gettysburg native to take part in the battle here, was wounded.

A copy of a manuscript relating how "The Revolution was a fat man's war" was presented to the historical society by Mrs. Dorothy Lynch. The paper reported on a reunion of Revolutionary war generals held in 1783 at which only two were found to weigh under 200 pounds.

Donation of two Windsor chairs from the Franklin house which later became the McClellan house and then the Hotel Gettysburg was reported. The chairs had been restored to their original condition by Harry Stauffer

Drivers and Guides: Taxi drivers will join with the battlefield guides in staging a pig roast in the Order of Independent Americans hall, November 16, at which time borough officials and members of the Battlefield Commission will be the invited guests.

Thompson-Poist: Gordon Earl Thompson son of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Thompson, Carlisle street, and Mary Corrine Poist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Poist, McSherrytown, were quietly married at the parsonage of St. James Lutheran church last Wednesday afternoon by Dr. J. B. Baker.

Mr. Thompson attended Gettysburg high school and for the past five months has been manager of Thompson's restaurant, Chambersburg street.

May Save Pastor's Arm: Word has been received here that it will not be necessary to amputate the arm of Rev. Norman S. Wolf, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Tawney, West Middle street, who is in the Bloomsburg hospital, suffering from blood poisoning.

Local Man Now in Charge: Earl Deatrick, Stratton street, local manager of the Western Union telegraphic office, Chambersburg street, for the past four years, has been notified of his transfer to Logan, West Virginia, to take charge of the office of the company there. He will be succeeded by W. A. Gelselman, East Middle street, for a number of years an operator for the Western Union, who took charge of the local office on Monday.

The office will be open continuously from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Changes Stores: P. W. Erdman, who for the past six months has been employed as watchmaker and repairman by Penrose Myers, has accepted a similar position with C. A. Blocher, Centre Square.

Rain Falls to Mar Spirit of Parade: Rain which fell during the day stopped at evening just long enough to allow the staging of a parade, for no sooner had the masqueraders disbanded than the downpour started again and continued throughout the night.

The Halloween spirit was rampant in the parade which turned out to be the largest, most fantastic, original and unique witnessed here in years. The parade was headed by John Schultz as chief marshal and Miss Ruth Stalish as an aide.

The Mount Joy Community band in fancy costumes and the Citizens' Band of Gettysburg, followed by four masked riders on horseback, furnished the music.

Legion Greets War Leaders: (By Associated Press) Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 4—The American Legion received its wartime commanders, Marshal Ferdinand Foch, of France, and General John J. Pershing, here today with a welcome fit for heroes of victorious armies. The thousands of delegates and visitors to the national convention of the American veterans gave the great military leaders a tumultuous greeting that spoke the affection of the American soldiers and people for the two men.

After hearing the visitors the convention adjourned until tomorrow to permit the delegates and visitors to attend the dedication of the Kansas City memorial to its war dead and to participate in the big Legion parade.

Marshal Foch brought to the Legionnaires a personal declaration of comradeship and from his government for the official greeting of France.

Town Acquires Heiges' Grove: At the initial meeting of the Arendtsville Lutheran and Reformed Association held Thursday evening at the residence of P. S. Orner, the purchase of Heiges' Grove was consummated and P. S. Orner was instructed to communicate with the Heiges family and procure the necessary legal papers for conveying the property. The Association unanimously agreed the name of the Worry is undoubtedly one of the greatest enemies the human race has ever had, or ever will have. But worry can easily be routed by paying no attention to it! Worry wants teasing and coddling. It wants attention. Then it gets in its deadly work. It creates within the mind an endless number of other worries that never had any intention of roosting with their god-father!

WORRY

Worry is not a disease, but it is a breeder of diseases. Therefore it is something that you should avoid as you would an ugly plague. There is not a single good that worry has ever accomplished. Most worries are about things that never happen, anyway. Most of the ills we hand over to worry are imaginary, as well.

Worry gets people down—it never helps them up! It hasn't a single bit of merit to warrant its presence in the mind of anyone. It's just plain uselessness to harbor it for a moment, for if it gets the least encouragement it jumps in on all fours and takes immediate possession. If we do our best, and honestly follow our inclinations, and make our decisions with intelligence, we can well let worry alone.

It is well, and natural, that we be concerned about our health, and those whom we love, but worrying is not going to help us at any time, nor is it going to help them.

We must learn the gospel of acceptance, as we wind our way through life. We must aid this wonderful machine of ours, this human body, and give it all the encouragement and backing possible. Worry, thrown into its happy, and natural working, would be like sprinkling sand into the gas of your car. Worry always promises dire results. An absolute absence of it in the mind, gives every evidence of hope.

You know what static is that you sometimes get over your radio. Well, that's what worry is to the mind, and which rattles its destructive way throughout the entire nervous system. No rest, no peace—no clear vision ahead. Just confusion and fear. Then why not dismiss all worry? It hasn't one single virtue!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "This Heritage of Ours"

MARRIAGE

How to get along together, Man and maid?
How to stand to stormy weather Unafraid?
Truly, there is little to it If you have the will to do it.

How to keep the home fires glowing, Man and wife?
Keep the love and laughter going All through life?
Don't tear love to shreds and tatters Over foolish, trifling matters.

How to marry and stay married, Glamour gone?
Share the burdens to be carried, Two as one.
Home will be the place you make it. Don't for selfish whims forsake it.

NEED SPECIAL CARE TO GUARD MILK QUALITY

Production of high quality milk demands observance of certain practices, one of the chief of which is cleanliness, declared I. E. Parkin, extension dairy specialist of the Pennsylvania State college.

By cleanliness, he refers to surroundings in the barn, to the condition of the cattle, the health and habits of attendants, and the sterilization and proper care of utensils.

Essentials in producing good milk are listed as: attendants, the cows, equipment, straining and cooling, and proper housing. Both attendants and cows, he says, must be clean and healthy.

Other Suggestions

Explaining the importance of proper housing, he stresses clean barns which are dry and well ventilated to provide comfortable quarters and to help protect the health of the dairy herd.

To avoid off-flavors in milk from feed, he suggests changing feeding time from before milking to after. Poor ventilation of the barn, particularly in winter, also can cause off flavors. These are not found in the milk from cows properly fed and cared for.

To eradicate bacteria from equipment used in handling the milk, rinsing, washing, and sterilizing practices must be followed rigidly. Emphasizing sanitary practices, he suggests use of a strip cup to determine possible udder infection and to clear the teat canal of contaminated milk. Clean, dry bands, Parkin reminds, are best for milking by hand.

Where milking machines are used observance of the managed milking routine will aid in producing more milk of better grade. After the milk is strained to remove any dust or dirt, it should be cooled immediately.

Lebanon, Pa., Nov. 6 (AP)—C. Bryon Burgner, 67-year-old hardware clerk, poised himself on the edge of three-story building, shot himself in the head with a small calibre pistol and fell 50 feet to the ground, Coroner W. H. Brubaker Tuesday.

His body was found by fellow employees in a small yard at the rear of the hardware building here late yesterday. Brubaker issued a certificate of death by suicide, adding that Burgner had teased he was going blind.

STEELTON BURGESS DIES

Steelton, Pa., Nov. 6 (AP)—John C. Craig, 77, chief Burgess of this Daughin county borough for 20 years died at his home Tuesday of a cerebral hemorrhage. A native of Harrisburg, Craig also was a former councilman and retired in 1944 as rolling mill superintendent of the Bethlehem Steel company plant here where he had been employed for 54 years.

Growing Gardenias Indoors

Indoor plant growers may be fully justified in their frequent attempts to grow the fragrant gardenia as a house plant. The foliage is attractive and the delicate flowers impart a scent of rare deliciousness. But the beginner's road to success with gardenias is not a smooth one. Failures are common because the average home offers no suitable environment for this semi-tropical shrub. Therefore the following brief suggestions should help many whose efforts to date have not been encouraging.

The indoor shrub called Gardenia in the north is grown as an outdoor border plant in the south, where it is usually called Cape Jasmine. The species and strain listed in catalogs as Gardenia veitchii is recommended for indoor roles. This is the hardest sort developed to date.

Beginners with gardenias should buy potted specimens for a start. After a year or two of success they may quite easily grow new plants from cuttings. The florist or nursery plant may be at any stage of development, preferably just before the budding age. However, buds usually appear in late September, hence most plants purchased this late may be well set with buds.

Dropping buds is the most troublesome misfortune house plant growers report with gardenias. This is usually caused by one or more of six conditions: (1) Lack of light; (2) too much light (especially hot mid-day sunshine); (3) dry soil; (4) too much soil moisture; (5) sudden changes in room temperature; and (6) dry air.

If the first buds which appear in early autumn are pinched off and kept removed for two or three weeks and then only the stronger buds thereafter left, dropping may be reduced.

Mealybugs are by far the most injurious insect enemy. The white woolly forms may become numerous on the under sides of the leaves and shoots before the grower is aware of the infestation. If hand picking cannot exterminate the pests, spray with nicotine sulphate in soapy water or use a nicotine dust.

Gardenias, like azaleas and rhododendrons, demand an acid soil. Thus, if ordinary potting loam is used, some well decomposed leaf-mold from an oak forest should be mixed with the alkaline loam, with some sand added to insure good pot drainage.

This shrub should never be pot-bound. As soon as the roots begin to fill the pot the plant should be moved to a larger pot, with extreme care exercised to prevent molestation of the small feeder roots. Firm potting is always stressed.

A night temperature ranging from 65 to 68 degrees is satisfactory, with the day temperature somewhere slightly above 70 degrees. Plenty of light without too much direct sunshine is necessary. Perhaps the chief injury from high temperatures results from dry air. Therefore, hot-air furnace heat is often fatal; not-water furnace heat is the most beneficial. Sudden changes in temperature, especially after buds form, should be avoided.

The editor will be glad to answer all questions readers wish to ask on this and all related indoor plant subjects.

TIMELY FACTS ABOUT GRAPES

The grape-leafhopper finds its over-winter shelter in rubbish and dead vegetation near grape vines. Too, such diseases as mildew, black rot and other common grape ills may live over in leaves, mummified fruits and other debris. Safety demands that such waste materials be spaded under deeply before winter or burned. Spading under is preferable, as it saves the organic matter for soil improvement.

If any dried berries remain on the vines, particularly those affected by black rot, they should all be removed and burned before winter.

Clean tillage throughout late spring and summer is desirable to keep grapes thriving. But the same advice does not apply from early September until late fall. Then the vines need a ground cover or at least they do not need cultivation. Late cultivation promotes excessive soil weeds which may suffer severely from winter-killing. The better method is to sow rye between the rows in August and thereafter cease cultivation. Of course, turning under debris before winter in no way affects plant maturity as the woods by that time are fully matured.

Gardeners and farmers intending to plant more grapes next spring should not postpone preparation of the soil. Turning under a liberal application of manure improves most soils for grapes, especially where the lower strata lack organic matter.

Grape vines begin to send out tiny feeder roots with the first warm days of late winter. This means in practical terms that planting must be done early. Hence the importance of preparing soil before winter under all circumstances except where sloping land may invite over-winter erosion.

All persons interested in grape culture should write the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Office of Information, Washington 25, D. C., for Farmers' Bulletin 1936 — Grapes for Different Regions. This is free. It describes many newer varieties as well as the old favorites and recommends grapes for all particular regions.

Another instructive publication which every grape grower should have for study and frequent reference is Farmers' Bulletin 1893 — Grape Insects and Diseases. This, too, may be procured without charge on request to the government department mentioned above.

It is seldom wise to experiment with new or untried grape varieties. The Concord, Niagara, Brilliant, Caco and Catawba remain the reliable standbys. Other varieties worth a limited trial are suggested in the bulletin recommended. These include Diamond, Empire State, Hidalgo, Rommel and Winchell — all white. Among desirable reds are: Agawan, Brighton, Delaware, Goff and Lucile. Good blues or blacks include: Campbell, Ives, Wordon, Moore and Norton.

Fertile fence rows with a southern exposure are ideal sites for growing a limited number of vines for home use. Of course, grape vines fit well into other roles besides producing their fine fruit — shade and screen. On arbors they make excellent shade; on fences or buildings they serve as good screens.

And by the way — growers should learn now all they need to know about pruning, for this work should be done in late January or early February.

Both the male and female seed die after spawning.

Voters swept Gov. Thomas E. Dewey (R) back into office in New York by a majority that climbed toward 750,000 over Senator James Mead (D).

Dewey's margin, projecting him anew into the ranks of GOP presi-dential possibilities in 1948, carried Irving M. Ives (R) to victory in his Senate race with former Gov. Her-bert Lehman for the seat Mead vacated.

The same kind of surge gave former Gov. John W. Bricker victory in his Ohio Senate race and assured a new term for Senator Arthur Vandenberg in Michigan.

Both are talked as possible Republi-can presidential candidates two years hence.

Senator Frank P. Briggs, Demo-cratic, endorsed by the President, was defeated by Republican James P. Kem, Kansas City attorney, in the Senatorial race.

In other undecided Senatorial races, Republicans were leading in Nevada, California, Montana, New Mexico, Washington and Utah. The Democratic candidates held an edge in Maryland, Wyoming and West Virginia.

Republicans already had defeated Democrats in Delaware, Ohio, Mis-souri, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Idaho, New York and had taken the seat formerly held by a Progressive in Wisconsin. Chapter 18 Stephanie described Freya's house.

"... In the river valley, to the north. You can see it from the crest of the hill."

"Is that long avenue of beech trees still there?" Her eyes widened.

"You know!"

"She told me once, years ago, about the trees."

"They are there."

"Then I can't possibly get lost."

"No."

"That side door," he asked, "is it locked?"

"There's an inside latch. I'll see that it's kept off during the day but if you'd only let me know it would be safer."

Gently he smiled. "Please don't be offended that I insist on doing it solo."

"Oh, I'm not offended... I want to be sure you get away quickly."

"I better get to work," he mumbled hoarsely.

Endless hours, with her face glim-mering in front of his eyes as he cut; sunshine on snow and her hair flowing back in the wind. After to-morrow he might never see her again.

At intervals he switched off the light and opened the closet door for a fresh supply of air. Once more he sat down beside her to rest but they didn't talk. When he finished, night had already yielded her east-ern border. A sparrow twittered under the eaves.

"You ought to go to bed now," urged Stephanie. He was glad she didn't suspect how much a few hours sleep might mean.

"I don't like to shut you up here. Will your maid go to your room in the morning?"

Her face was gravely amused. "I have no maid, only Joseph and we have a pact—if I don't ring he lets me sleep, sometimes I sleep till noon."

"Why," he asked suddenly, "have you been ill Stephanie?"

She was amazed. "That's a funny thing to ask." If she could only see the shadows under her eyes, he thought, she wouldn't think it funny. Sometimes it makes the days seem shorter, less monotonous."

She shrugged a little, again came

Lodge Beats Walsh With the same sweep it bowled over a 25-year veteran in David I. Walsh (D-Mass.), who opposed the late President Roosevelt's prewar foreign policies, and two-term Joseph F. Guffey (D-Pa.), who campaigned as the "No. 1 Roosevelt supporter in Pennsylvania."

There was other evidence that the Roosevelt name had lost its political lustre in the defeats of Democratic Senators James M. Tunnell in Dela-ware, and James Huffman in Ohio. Both were listed as strong support-ers of President Truman's efforts to carry out the Roosevelt policies, as was Briggs.

Rep. Andrew J. May, Democratic chairman of the House Military Committee, lost his fight for re-election in the seventh Kentucky district to W. Howes Meade, Re-publican, who campaigned with a jeep train. May had figured in the Senate War Investigating Commit-tee's inquiry into the Garsson Illi-nois munitions combine.

He grinned. "It's just our guilty conscience."

He broke five lathes, then bolted to shut off the water and tip-toed back in a hurry. He wanted to laugh. He thought, some of the boys would like to see be flitting around like a bloody housefly. Before the water stopped he broke three, leaving five to go.

"Now I'll invite myself down to breakfast." She brushed plaster off his shoulder.

"It's in your hair too... bend down a little." He knew he was going to kiss her but he bent down anyway and the minute she stopped brushing he put his hands behind her head and kissed her.

"That," he said huskily, "is be-cause I like the kind of person you are." She gave him a long look, then that half smile he had begun to look for. "Sometimes one gets a vin-dictive pleasure in staying abed, de-liberately ignoring one's present cir-cumstances."

"I've never tried it."

"Try it now... don't worry about me, I feel lucky."

"You simply must be lucky, it's so necessary—like when I pinched this dinner-knife."

She smiled. "Give it to me, I'll put it back."

It was still warm from his hand, the kind of earthy warmth that makes death seem so improbable.

"Good night," she said.

Suddenly he was kneeling beside her. She felt the warm lightness of his lips on her cheek.

"Thanks for everything," he said rising. For a second he looked into her long, unfathomable grey eyes, then he switched off the light.

In the morning Niel woke abrupt-ly, feeling that all was not well. He looked at his watch. It was seven o'clock. Breakfast downstairs was at eight but Steiner and Conrad, ac-cording to Stephanie, always went down earlier. So at seven thirty he'd run the bath water and under cover of the noise break as many lathes as possible then he'd ask Siegmund to take him downstairs to break-fast. It was a safe bet Siegmund would go down first to ask per-mission, while he was gone he'd break the remaining lathes. Noise-lessly he got up and opened the closet door! Stephanie was standing up, flexing her arms.

"How do you feel?" he whispered.

"Like a tea-cup."

"I'll soon be over. I'm going to ask Siegmund to take me down to breakfast... I'll dress now."

She was so pale he left the door open a little in spite of her pro-tests. He dressed quickly and made up the bed to prevent Siegmund or Conrad from having cause to en-ter the closet. He heard both Stein-er and Conrad say good morning to Siegmund on their way down-stairs. He'd never forget how sweet those good mornings sounded. Then he turned on the bath taps to their noisiest gauge and hurried to the closet.

"Stand back Stephanie," he said without further ado, "there against the wall where the plaster won't fall on you."

The first lath was the worst. It sounded like a crack of doom, fol-lowed by her sharp gasp.

"Do you think he heard?" Sweat was on his lip. "Tiptoe outside the door and listen to the next one."

She came in, her face beaming.

"He couldn't possibly hear."

He grinned. "It's just our guilty conscience."

He broke five lathes, then bolted to shut off the water and tip-toed back in a hurry. He wanted to laugh. He thought, some of the boys would like to see be flitting around like a bloody housefly. Before the water stopped he broke three, leaving five to go.

Friday's Games

Fairfield at Arendtsville, East Berlin at New Oxford.

Littlestown clinched at least a tie for first place in the Adams County Scholastic Soccer league Tuesday evening by defeating New Oxford 4 to 2 on the New Oxford field.

A. Bair and Rebert scored goals in the first period to give the visitors a lead that was never threatened.

Boyd and King added the next two tallies in the third and fourth periods. New Oxford's E. Mechtly made the two tallies for the losers in the fourth quarter.

Arendtsville and East Berlin bat-tled into an extra period before de-ciding their contest. East Berlin scored in the first quarter and Ar-endtsville in the second to tie the game at 1 to 1 at half time.

Neither side was able to score in the third quarter and then both teams added a point in the fourth to tie the struggle at two-all at the close of the regular periods. East Berlin then made a tally in the extra quarter to win the contest.

The box scores:

East Berlin at New Oxford.

Littlestown clinched at least a tie for first place in the Adams County Scholastic Soccer league Tuesday evening by defeating New Oxford 4 to 2 on the New Oxford field.

A. Bar and Robert scored goals in the first period to give the visitors a lead that was never threatened. Boyd and King added the next two tallies in the third and fourth periods. New Oxford's E. Mecht made the two tallies for the losers in the fourth quarter.

Arendtsville and East Berlin bat-tled into an extra period before de-ciding their contest. East Berlin scored in the first quarter and Ar-endtsville in the second to tie the game at 1 to 1 at half time.

Neither side was able to score in the third quarter and then both teams added a point in the fourth to tie the struggle at two-all at the close of the regular periods. East Berlin then made a tally in the extra quarter to win the contest.

Villanova Tackling Needs Improvement

Villanova, Pa., Nov. 6 (AP)—Villanova Coach Jordan Olivar told his Wildcats today their tackling in the Miami game last week-end "was ragged and it will have to improve quite a bit if we're to make any sort of showing against Detroit" Friday night.

Olivar said he plans a short workout for the team this afternoon before the squad leaves tonight for Detroit, where he has scheduled a workout tomorrow at the University of Detroit stadium.

Al Barker, regular right guard, who is out of game for the rest of the season with a shoulder injury, will be replaced by Ed Lanigan, a freshman who has played every game to date. Coach Olivar said he also expected to have the services of quarterback Andy Gordon who has recovered from injuries in last week's game.

Cleopatra is said to have used clay from the Nile to improve her complexion.

TUCKER LOSS BLOW TO ARMY IN IRISH TILT

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP)—It is an accepted axiom of football that it takes a good quarterback to make the "T" formation click. It also is a well-known fact that football players sometimes get hurt.

Therefore it was a matter of considerable interest when Earl Red Blaik, Army coach, observed yesterday that if Arnold Tucker were lost it would hurt his team more than it would hurt Notre Dame to lose Johnny Lujack. When these two teams clash at Yankee stadium before 76,000 spectators, it will be a meeting of two top "T" formation quarterbacks as well as a contest between the nation's two top-ranking teams.

Backfield Shortage

If Tucker, who suffered a shoulder separation early this season, should be hurt Saturday, Blaik would really feel the pinch of an already acute backfield shortage. Bill Gustafson, who did an adequate job of running the team during the Floridian's earlier absence, is the No. 1 replacement at two position. He also is scheduled to replace all-America Glenn Davis if Glenn doesn't play the full 60 minutes.

If both Tucker and Davis should be forced out, an eventuality which makes Blaik shudder when it is mentioned, the only alternative would be to put Arnold Galiffa, a 19-year-old piebald, at quarter and Gustafson at left half. Galiffa is rated as highly promising by the Army coaches but he hasn't arrived yet.

On the other hand, should Lujack have to leave the game, Notre Dame can call upon George Ratterman and John Tripeaka, both of whom Blaik characterizes as "fine passers and fine ball handlers."

ROSKOS LEADS GRID SCORING

Philadelphia, Nov. 6 (AP)—Dan Roskos, 23-year-old war veteran who totes the pigskin for East Stroudsburg State Teachers' college, went on a touchdown jamboree against Montclair Teachers' of New Jersey to move into an 11-point lead for the Pennsylvania scoring crown.

Roskos, who hails from Hazleton, Pa., crossed the Montclair goal five times last week to bring his season total to 78 points. The short, stocky speedster has accounted for 13 touchdowns in five games, an average of almost 16 points per game.

The Roskos scoring assault hopped him over Geneva's Larry Bruno, who tallied once against Westminster to hike his season total to 67 points including 11 touchdowns and an extra point.

Third place was shared by Skipper Minisi of Penn and Jack Crider of Muhlenberg, each with nine touchdowns and 65 points.

Eddie Sikorski of Muhlenberg held down the fifth spot with eight tee-dees and 48 points. That total was the same with which Penn State's Joe Tepsic won last year's scoring crown.

Gene Hubka, the speedy Bucknell back, made it two touchdowns a game for his last three contests to take over sixth place with 36 points.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP)—Prize display among the decorations with which the cadets have adorned their barracks to show their scorn of Notre Dame is a large rope cobwebs holding two skeletons to represent the 1944 and 1945 Irish teams and a green-Jersey figure to show how the 1946 team is going to suffer the same fate—besides showing considerable ingenuity, this one doesn't use up any of the hard-to-get sheets that form the basis for most of the signs.

Prize remark by Coach Earl Blaik during yesterday's fanning and information session: "I don't see where Notre Dame gets that talk about not having a break-away runner. I saw Cowhig Saturday and he ran like a deer. And when you get 220 pounds moving that fast, it's something to see."

SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES

Colgate and Holy Cross will vie for a new football trophy Saturday, presented by Holy Cross Coach O. Da Grosa in memory of Benjamin P. Sibley, a Colgate student who was killed in service. Sibley was a Worcester, Mass., boy and Da Grosa was graduated from Colgate. . . Coach Jack Stoebor, whose Thiel college team is continuing an unbeaten and untied record from its last season before the war, also is director of athletics, dean of men, basketball coach and physical education instructor. In his spare time he probably sweeps out the gym. . . Warren Amling, who starred every Saturday at guard for Ohio State last season and wound up as an all-American, is having a hard time getting his name into the papers this year. Observers aren't sure whether it's the shift to tackle or stronger opposition that has made the difference.

LAST LAUGH

A lot of folks didn't believe it when Gary Bodie said he had an all major league infield at the Norfolk naval training station in 1944. . . Take a look at them now. . . Eddie Robinson and Jack Conway, Baltimore first baseman and shortstop, will be up with Cleveland next spring; Henry Schenz, Portsmouth, Va., second sacker, is going to the Cubs and third baseman Joffe Cross, up from Houston, was a relief man with the Cards in 1946 and likely will return.

IRISH LEAD IN YARDAGE GAINED

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Notre Dame comes up to its National championship clash with Army this week leading the country's college elevens in average yardage gained both on the ground and in the air, figures released by the National Collegiate Athletic bureau showed today.

The Irish in five games have amassed 2,150 yards on total offense for an average of 430 per game. Army ranks tenth with an average of 362.3.

Notre Dame, second in total offense last week, supplants the leader for three weeks straight, Utah university, which wound up in fourth place this week.

In rushing offense, Utah ranks second with a 301.8 average.

On rushing offense, Army moved from 14th last week to eighth this week, having gained an average of 246.7 yards per game.

Boston Jumps Up

Boston college made the greatest jump, from ninth last week to second in total offense and from 11th to second in passing offense. The Eagles completed 21 of 33 passes against New York university Saturday for 348 yards and five touchdowns—a new college high.

Nevada clung to the lead in passing offense for the fourth straight week, with an average of 192 yards per game. The statistics bureau rates teams on the average yardage rather than the number or percentage of completions.

Nevada also leads the nation in punting with an average of 44.1 yards per kick on 21 punts.

NEGRO ISSUE CANCELS GAME WITH MIAMI

State College, Pa., Nov. 6 (AP)—Football Coach Bob Higgins of Penn State took the view today that cancellation of the University of Miami game, scheduled for November 29, "was the only thing we could do" in view of an impasse over the question of allowing two Negro players on Penn State's team to participate.

"It was agreed by both of us that it was impossible for Miami, in their situation, to have colored boys come down there, and it was impossible for us not to let them play," Higgins told a reporter in response to questioning.

Dr. Carl P. Schott, Penn State's dean of physical education, stated earlier that Miami had informed him "it would be difficult to carry out arrangements" for the game if Penn State included its two Negro players, Wallace Triplett, III, and Dennie Hoggard, both of Philadelphia.

Players Not Consulted

Higgins said neither of the youths had been consulted about the situation, "for it wasn't their problem, it was ours."

"We just don't have the same rules up here," the coach remarked. "I guess it's a problem that will take a few years to break down."

Higgins commented that "all teams from the north" will have to take the racial attitude into consideration when scheduling games with southern schools.

The question of using the Negro players came up only a few weeks ago, Higgins said, explaining that with the return of so many ex-servicemen, it was hard to tell far in advance just who would be on a team. In the correspondence which resulted in the cancellation, he emphasized, "everything was done with the best of feeling between both institutions."

The Penn State grid season will end with a game at the University of Pittsburgh November 23.

Referee Splits Fontaine Decision

Pittsburgh, Nov. 6 (AP)—Juste Fontaine of Pittsburgh emerged with a split decision last night over Dorsey Lay of Philadelphia after a hard-fought ten rounder at the Gardens here. Fontaine weighed 136, Lay 137 1/2.

A dissenting vote in Lay's favor was cast by Referee Ernie Sesto. The victor put Lay on the canvas for a count of nine in the sixth. In the preliminaries, Leon Haire, 135, of Philadelphia, won a decision over Sammy Schipani, 135, of Pittsburgh (6).

BUCKY HARRIS YANKEE PILOT

By JACK HAND

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—The job of reviving the sagging baseball fortunes of the once-mighty New York Yankees has been saddled on the shoulders of Stanley (Bucky) Harris, a reported $35,000-a-year ex-boy wonder who was returned to the playing field from the executive ranks.

A minor shakeup is imminent, that is certain, for Harris admitted yesterday, when his new job was formally announced by President Larry MacPhail, that he was interested in a first baseman, a catcher, some pitchers and another outfielder.

How far reaching the player turnover may be depends on the number of deals that can be arranged by MacPhail, but both the new manager and the club president have made it emphatic that Joe DiMaggio is to remain with the Yankees.

No Players Discussed

Ted Williams is not under consideration according to MacPhail who confirmed a World Series meeting with Owner Tom Yawkey of the Boston club. Larry said no players were discussed.

With Chuck Dressen, late of Brooklyn, as the No. 1 coach, things will be different at the stadium next summer and fans may expect to see more of the daring base-running and aggressive ball that Leo Durocher showed the Brooklyn customers.

BONELLI RELEASED

Pittsburgh, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Professional Football league last night announced the unconditional release of Ernie Bonelli, former Pitt fullback. He joined the team in mid-season.

Republicans Sweep State; Gain 9 Posts In Congress; Defeat Guffey In Senate

Philadelphia, Nov. 6 (AP)—Pennsylvania Republicans today looked joyfully over a statewide political landslide that gave them, besides virtual 100 percent of the state government, a 28-to-5 majority in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Additionally, the G.O.P. won the Senate seat held for 12 years by Joseph P. Guffey, Democrat.

The Republicans gained nine House seats. Democrats held only five of 13 from the last Congress, and the other Republican gain was in filling a vacancy.

Last race to be settled was in the 29th (Pittsburgh) district where John McDowell, Republican, edged out Harry J. Davenport, Democrat.

In a race so close nearly complete unofficial returns were necessary to determine the winner. The district, known for its close contests, went Republican in 1944 by a scant 494 votes out of a total of 125,678. The winner of that race, Howard E. Campbell, Republican, was not a candidate for reelection.

Six seats were picked up by the Republicans in Philadelphia, where five Democratic incumbents were runbled from office. A sixth Philadelphia Democrat, Albert S. Townsend, was defeated by Hardie Scott in a contest to succeed Michael J. Bradley, Philadelphia Democratic chairman, who was not a candidate for reelection.

Three other seats were snatched from Democratic control in the 10th where James P. Stobbe of Archbald won over Frank N. Murray of Scranton; in the 11th where Mitchell Jenkins of Trucksville defeated incumbent Daniel J. Flood of Wilkes-Barre; and in the 13th where Frederick A. Muhlenberg of Sinking Spring, R. D. unseated Daniel R. Hook of Reading, who was seeking a third term.

Defeated also in the 13th was the lone socialist candidate for Congress, Raymond S. Hofes of Reading.

Retain Spring Victory
The Republicans also retained possession of the 22nd district seat which they captured from the Democrats in a special election last May. There William J. Crew, Uniontown Republican, defeated John W. Rankin, Uniontown Democrat. Last May Carl H. Hoffman, Republican, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of J. Buell Snyder, veteran Democrat. Hoffman was not a candidate for reelection.

The winners, with (X) designating incumbents:

1st. James Gallagher, Philadelphia (R).
2nd. Robert N. McGarvey, Philadelphia (R).

Future Plans
As governor, Duff plans an immense extension of the commonwealth nursery service.

Up at 6 o'clock every morning, Mrs. Duff makes sure her husband has a good breakfast of fruit, juice, oatmeal, bacon, toast and tea—and sometimes buckwheat cakes—when he comes down at 7.

Jim Duff and Jean Taylor Duff first met when he was a freshman at Princeton. She recalled:

"We met at a New Year's Eve party. Then we didn't see each other for six years. We kept hearing about each other off and on but it wasn't until Jim came to my home town, Beaver, for another dance that we met again. A year later, we married."

hundreds of soldiers and yet none without limbs. Why, at home, we are constantly seeing the poor soldiers, hobbling along with one leg, or none, or armless as the case may be. When I remarked the difference I was reminded that I was in the land of plenty where limbs and everything else were easily gotten by all.

"Such homage I never saw or imagined could be shown to any one person as the people bestow upon Lincoln. The very mention of his name brings forth shouts of applause. No doubt he will be the next President, even his enemies acknowledge him to be an honest man. And no doubt the popular tide will increase as the time approaches."

The carnage about Gettysburg resulting from the battle here July 1, 2, and 3, 1863 remained to some extent for months afterward. Mrs. Roedel visited February 27, 1864 the home of John and Mary Shriver.

Forney on Oak Ridge, near where the peace light is now located. Iverson's North Carolina brigade had charged across John Forney's farm during the battle here. Mrs. Roedel described the scene on February 27 following:

Shallow Graves
"We spent this holy day out at John's, hardly the right way to spend the Sabbath, yet it was the only day we could all be together. I walked over part of the battlefield and to see hundreds of men buried in holes hardly deep enough to cover them is heart-rending, but such is the case, hundreds are lying around his house just in that condition. Most of them are from N. C. (North Carolina). The Union soldiers are carefully buried but the enemy lying neglected."

Other excerpts from Mrs. Roedel's diary as read by Mrs. Lewars detailed how she went to Washington and sought the aid of Thaddeus Stevens, who had been a neighbor of hers in Gettysburg when she lived there prior to her marriage, and of how she finally secured a pass to return home through the Union and Confederate lines. She arrived home in Virginia July 13, 1864, almost nine months from the date she left to come to Gettysburg upon hearing of her mother's illness. She arrived home here to find her mother had died and her father ill. About a year after her return to Wrentham her husband was killed, December 12, 1865, in an accident. She then returned to Gettysburg where she lived above what is now Shuman's drug store on Baltimore street until her death November 23, 1904.

GOP COLUMN BY HEAVY MARGIN

Pittsburgh, Nov. 6 (AP)—Allegheny county, for 15 years Pennsylvania's Democratic stronghold, gave substantial majorities to the victorious Republican state ticket headed by Edward Martin and James H. Duff.

The Republican surge swept western Pennsylvania in yesterday's election. Out of 36 counties in the western tier, only four—Industrial, Cambria, Fayette, Greene and Washington—turned in ballot-leads for losing Senator Joseph P. Guffey, and the Democratic margin there was less than usual.

In Allegheny, returns from 991 precincts out of 1027 were: For Senator: Guffey (D) 216,350; Martin 257,131.

For governor, in the same number of precincts, Duff polled 261,952 as against 222,860 for the Democratic candidate, John S. Rice.

Split Ballots
Daniel B. Strickler, successful Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, and William S. Livergood, Republican victor in the contest for secretary of internal affairs, gained smaller majorities—apparently due to split-ballot voting by the so-called independent voters.

The approximate 45,000 vote margin for the Republican banner-carriers in strike-battered Allegheny, contrasted with the fact that in 1942, the chief Democratic candidates swept the county by around 25,000 votes.

Candidates backed by the CIO political action committee were among those upset by the Republican tide. But State Senator Elmer J. Holland, a leader in PAC activity, was among the Democrats who broke through to victory. He attributed the change to a general Republican trend.

Lawrence Optimistic
Mayor David L. Lawrence, former Democratic state chairman, commented:

"We'll get them next year."

The Republicans gained no Congressmen in Allegheny county, where they have had three of the five seats, but they gained ten seats in the state house of representatives.

In the most stunning upset, Democratic County Chairman B. McGinnis lost his fight for reelection to a fourth term in the State Senate. He was beaten by 400 votes by a Republican, Theodore H. Doehla, 57, bakery company executive.

In western Pennsylvania counties outside Allegheny, three new congressmen, all Republicans, were elected and five incumbents, three of them Republicans, were returned to office.

New House Members:
The new House members are: James E. Van Zandt, pre-war congressman from Altoona, who defeated Democrat John A. Sharpe, also of Altoona, in the Blair-Centre-Clearfield district.

Carroll D. Kearns, Pottsville school superintendent, who piled up a lead of over 22,000 in Erie, Crawford and Mercer counties and carried normally Democratic Erie City to defeat Charles W. Webb, of Meadville.

William J. Crow, of Uniontown defeated John W. Rankin, Democratic county commissioner in Fayette county.

Re-elected congressmen were: Republicans Harve Tibbott, Ebensburg; Louis E. Graham, Beaver; and Leon H. Gann, Oil City; and Democrats Thomas E. Morgan, Fredericktown, and Augustine B. Kelley.

The paper was a fragment of a report by Henry Dustman, father of Mrs. Hartzell, whose home was on Oak Ridge near the Lutheran seminary, telling of how John Burns, only Gettysburg native to take part in the battle here, was wounded.

A copy of a manuscript relating how "The Revolution was a fat man's war," was presented to the historical society by Mrs. Dorothy Lynch. The paper reported on a reunion of Revolutionary war generals held in 1783 at which only two were found to weigh under 200 pounds.

Donation of two Windsor chairs from the Franklin house which later became the McClellan house and then the Hotel Gettysburg was reported. The chairs had been restored to their original condition by Harry Sauer.

Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh reported that a number of countians had answered a request for details about roads in the county, their names and histories. He asked further information about the roads, urging countians to write him at his home, 150 West Broadway.

GOP CAPTURES BIGGEST LEAD IN STATE HOUSE

Harrisburg, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Republican landslide in Pennsylvania's General Election gave the GOP its greatest majority in the state House of Representatives since the advent of the New Deal in 1932.

Sweep into office on an avalanche of ballots yesterday were 161 Republican members of the lower branch against 32 seats won by Democrats. Of the 15 remaining places where the count was incomplete, six of the incumbents are Republicans.

In the State Senate, a two-thirds majority for Republicans was in sight for the first time since 1936. A GOP majority gives it complete control in the upper chamber over confirmation of administration appointments.

Republicans were victors in 19 of the 25 contests against five for the Democrats with the remaining place sought by a GOP incumbent—State Sen. A. H. Lertzler, Clearfield. Held over Republican Senators number 14, Democrats 11. The division in the 1945 session was 32-18, two short of the two-thirds majority.

Token Oppositions
With 50 to 60 votes more than the 105 needed to enact legislation in sight in contrast to the four-vote margin held by the GOP in the 1945 session of the General Assembly, Republicans in the lower branch can act on the party's postwar program with little more than token opposition in sight. In 1945, the division was 105-99. The last time the GOP held such a top-sided majority was in the 1931-32 session when there were 124 Republicans to 22 Democrats.

Speaker Ira T. Fiss of Snyder county and majority leader Franklin H. Lichtenwaler of Lehigh were two of the incumbent Republicans returned to the House. Some Republican leaders have mentioned Lichtenwaler for speaker in the event Fiss does not seek a third term.

On the Democratic side, at least 64 incumbents either were defeated or did not seek re-election, eliminating such figures as Reps. Reuben Cohen and J. Harold Levy of Philadelphia and John L. Boney of Luzerne. Rep. Hiram G. Andrews, House minority leader, was re-elected, however, in Cambria.

Elect One Woman
State Senators Edward J. Coleman, B. B. McGinnis, Allegheny, and John J. McCreesh, Philadelphia, all Democrats, and Edwin S. Bowers, Fayette, a Republican, were eliminated.

Rep. Jeannette Dye, Mercer Republican, was the only one of the four women members in the 1945 Legislature who was re-elected. Reps. Mary A. Varallo and Josephine C. Coyle, both Philadelphia Democrats, lost while Anna Brancato, (Phila-D) did not seek re-election.

State senators elected were: (X)—Incumbent.

1,000 EGGS IN EVERY HEN
IF YOU KEEP CHICKENS CUT THIS OUT

"The great trouble with the poultry business has always been that the laying life of the hen was too short," said Henry Trafford, nationally famous Poultry Editor, for nearly eighteen years Editor of "Poultry Success."

The average pullet may lay 150 eggs, or more in a second year, may lay 100. Then she goes to market. But it has been definitely established that a pullet hatched from 1.00 to 2.00 minutes egg terms in her system and may, in many instances, be made to lay on a highly profitable basis for as long as five years—if given proper care.

How to work to get up towards 1,000 eggs from hens instead of discarding them after one year of laying; how to keep up high production from fewer birds; save on upkeep, cost of breeding, rearing and feeding, and so get more net profit from every dozen eggs. These and many other money-making poultry secrets are in Mr. Trafford's 1,000 EGG HEN PLAN of poultry raising, one copy of which will be sent to any reader of this paper who keeps poultry. Eggs, this year, will again be in great demand at good prices—to take the place of hard-to-get meat. Want to get the place of poultry keeper who can make his bird produce. Mr. Trafford's plan tells how. If you keep chickens and want them to lay with EXTRA EGGS, cut out this notice and mail name and address to PENN POULTRY SERVICE, 5114 4th St., Phila., Pa., and free copy of the 1,000 EGG PLAN will be sent by return mail.

Good News For Folks Who Suffer From ✓ STOMACH GAS
✓ SOUR FOOD TASTE
✓ ACID INDIGESTION

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief from these troubles.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with over-eating of soda and eating habits. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

AWFUL RHEUMATIC PAIN LEFT MAN'S BODY IN 8 HOURS
"For years I had rheumatic pains in the muscles of my shoulders, legs and ankles, which finally got so stiff, sore and painful that when I walked I would flinch with agony. I got RHEU-AID and started taking it, and the rheumatic pains began leaving my body in eight hours. Now the pains are gone from my muscles entirely. I feel like some other person, and I praise RHEU-AID to the sky." This is a genuine testimonial from a man living right here in Gettysburg.

RHEU-AID is the new liquid formula containing three valuable medical ingredients. These Three Great Medicines, all blended into one, go right to the very cause of rheumatic and neuritis aches and pains. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get RHEU-AID. Sold by all drug-stores here in Gettysburg.
